

A HARMONY MASK

Put Over Leaders' Differences In State Convention.

SPEECHES OUTSIDE DEFIANT

The Convention Again Convened This Morning.

DAUGHERTY APPEARED TO LEAD.

The Keynote of the Address of Huling and Kerr Was For Harmony—Foraker, Hanna, Bushnell and Foster Spoke In the Advocacy of Forgetting Factional Differences—Foraker, In an Address to the McKisson Delegation, Told Them They Were the Rightful One—Said He Joined Them In Putting On Their Fighting Clothes—Must Let the People of the Party Have a Voice In their Councils If They Were to Have Right and Prestige—Daugherty Made a Speech Which Some Interpreted In Connection With That of Foraker—Action by the State Central Committee Which Indicated That the Cox Delegation Would Be Seated, From Hamilton County.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The Republican state convention reassembled at about 10 o'clock this morning. Daugherty appeared to be in the lead, but the conference continued, however, and the field may next turn on Daugherty. There were those who believed that no winning combination can be formed until after the test of balloting. The committee on rules and order of business, last night, limited all nominating speeches to five minutes, with only one seconding speech of one minute, in anticipation of the convention running late into Friday night or being continued over to Saturday.

The committee on permanent organization decided to report in favor of making the temporary organization permanent.

Among the features of Thursday were the speeches at the hotels that were bitter and defiant, and those at the convention that were all for harmony. The leaders, who joined the chorus at the auditorium from 4 to 6 p. m. in a sort of peace jubilee, spent the night, however, in contests and conferences that were not very harmonious.

While the forces of Cox, Daugherty and Kurtz combined against Nash as the Hanna candidate in all the preliminary work, yet this combine can not apparently get together on any one man for governor. Cox wants a dark horse, and is grooming Shattuc till he names his favorite. Foraker wants Jones. Kurtz doesn't want Jones or Daugherty if he can get someone he likes better. Meantime, Daugherty insists that he has more votes than Jones, Cox and Kurtz can command, that they should come to him if they want to defeat Nash and thereby indirectly defeat Hanna. It is in this complication that Nevins is likely to be brought out.

The new state committee elected Vivian J. G. Fagin chairman and P. W. Durr secretary and will meet here June 17 for permanent organization.

Hon. Cyrus Huling, as chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order Thursday afternoon. There were demonstrations as Senators Hanna and Foraker entered the hall, and the Glee club commanded such attention as to secure order. Rev. S. S. Palmer offered prayer, after which Chairman Huling in part said:

"The Republicans of Ohio are deeply in earnest this year. They feel that the prosperity of the country, the expansion of our commerce and the honor of the flag they love depend upon the endorsement of Mr. McKinley this year by the triumphant election of the candidates nominated at this convention and his renomination and re-election next year to the high place he now holds."

He then plead for harmony.

Mr. Huling announced that the state committee had selected the following temporary organization: Chairman, Hon. W. S. Kerr of Mansfield; secretary, Hon. E. L. Lampson of Ashtabula; sergeant-at-arms, Frederick Bader of Cincinnati.

On being introduced, Congressman Kerr was heartily cheered.

The delegates took up his keynote for harmony, and proceeded to call on certain leaders for speeches. All responded except General Grosvenor, who had left the hall, and ex-Governor Foster was called out in his place.

Senator Foraker said there were very many things for Ohio Republicans to talk about just now, and to think about and to act on wisely, and he commended the speech of Mr. Kerr as the true keynote for them. He joined in the plea for peace. The great duty of Ohio Republicans was to get together. United, they were invincible, and divided, they were beaten in advance. They needed not only a good platform, but also a standardbearer who was the very strongest man, no matter what was his name or his past affiliations in the party. There has not been in the present generation such an important election in Ohio, none ever more easy for Republicans to carry, and yet never one they could more easily lose. Ohio is the home of McKinley and should head the column for next year.

Senator Hanna made a most vigorous appeal for harmony. He referred to the speeches of Huling, Kerr and Foraker that had been made for harmony, and urged that it would be necessary for all to work together if the Republicans won in Ohio this year. He said no man was as great as his party, although the Democratic papers were now trying to make out a case of some Republicans being greater than their party. He said:

"The Democratic papers cannot run this convention. We know our own business better than they. We have been in politics as long as they. Our experience is better, our motives purer, our aims higher."

Senator Hanna said they would like one another better the longer they looked into each other's faces, and that they would find out tomorrow (Friday) that there were no differences in the party. He urged such harmony and such organization as would give them the confidence of the president, with an army and navy to back up his policies. Like all the preceding speakers, he eulogized President McKinley and pleaded for success this year and his interest next year.

Governor Bushnell created quite an amusing stir in following Senator Hanna, and saying:

"There appears to be every evidence of harmony here. That's what we need; that's what we all want." He continued on the keynote for peace and harmony, as did also ex-Governor Charles Foster, who followed him in a speech urging the factions to get together.

Under the call of the 21 congressional districts the following committees were announced:

Resolutions.—First district, Cox, Judge James B. Swing; anti-Cox, Charles H. Stevens; Second, Cox, Scott Bonham; anti-Cox, J. Chandler Harris; Third, Isaac Hale; Fourth, Robert D. Bingham; Fifth, H. C. Glenn; Sixth, L. A. Edwards; Seventh, McPherson Brown; Eighth, W. A. Bolt; Ninth, Dr. Walker; Tenth, Stephen Morgan; Eleventh, Otto Valenwinder; Twelfth, L. G. Silbaugh; Thirteenth, J. D. Finch; Fourteenth, W. C. Cooper; Fifteenth, H. V. VanVorhis; Sixteenth, J. Danbar; Seventeenth, Judge M. L. Smyser; Eighteenth, R. W. Taylor; Nineteenth, John J. Sullivan; Twentieth, C. A. Judson and George B. Basche; Twenty first, Holcomb delegation, M. E. Herrick; Hanna, E. T. Anderson; McKisson, Harry Vail.

Prentiss; Sixth, Charles H. Eulas; Seventh, R. H. McCloud; Eighth, Otis H. Kimball; Ninth, Colonel J. C. Bonner; Tenth, Philo S. Clark; Eleventh, A. W. Voorhees; Twelfth, A. I. Vorys; Thirteenth, W. C. Brown; Fourteenth, G. M. Skiles; Fifteenth, S. D. Aldeman; Sixteenth, Paul B. Worthington; Seventeenth, W. B. Moody; Eighteenth, G. E. Baldwin; Nineteenth, G. W. Selber; Twentieth, J. H. Brooner and Abraham Kramer; Twenty-first, Holcomb delegation, T. J. Wing; Hanna, David Morrison; McKisson, Walter Meals.

State central committee.—First district, Cox, V. J. Fagin; anti-Cox, J. L. Steele; Second, Cox, Peter W. Durr; anti-Cox, William Ford; Third, C. A. Craighead; Fourth, S. M. Fletcher; Fifth, W. H. McClintock; Sixth, W. H. Walker; Seventh, C. C. Chappelard; Eighth, S. F. Dewol; Ninth, Percy White; Tenth, S. H. Eagle; Eleventh, J. C. Kelley; Twelfth, Dr. Frank McCafferty; Thirteenth, P. F. McNeal; Fourteenth, E. M. Pierce; Fifteenth, T. J. Masterson; Sixteenth, J. A. Beal; Seventeenth, George A. Hay; Eighteenth, M. A. Norris; Nineteenth, C. P. Sherry; Twentieth, R. B. Hubbard and Jacob Beidler; Twenty first, Holcomb delegation, B. Mallin; Hanna, F. M. Chandler; McKisson, Fred L. Taft.

Senator Foraker created a sensation by declarations which indicated to delegates that he was opposing Senator Hanna. When the members of the McKisson delegation arrived they serenaded Senator Foraker at the Southern hotel, the headquarters of the anti-Hanna and anti-Nash men. The senator said he joined them in putting on his fighting clothes and closed his speech thus:

"We are on the eve of a great political battle and Ohio is to play a most important part in this battle and I say to you that she must be right. This convention is a most important one and if we are to have right and prestige with us we must let the people of our party have a voice in our councils. I say here and now that I believe you men to be loyal, legal representatives of your party and I hope to see you stand in the convention."

Hon. H. M. Daugherty was serenaded and made a speech, which some interpreted in connection with the speech of Senator Foraker as indicating that the field was showing defiance to Senator Hanna and Judge Nash. Mr. Daugherty said in closing: "I have no quarrel with any man within or without the Republican party—unless he should by mistake forget that it is within the province of the people to make the candidate for governor."

At the district meetings in the afternoon the combine, including the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces, had a bare majority and secured control of the committees, including the pivotal point in the organization conceded to be vested in the committee on credentials, but the Hanna and Nash men claimed a majority of the delegates by counties. The first and second districts, after affirming their previous action at Cincinnati, met jointly and adopted a resolution authorizing Chairman Cox to cast the 86 votes of Hamilton county in the convention under the unit rule. There was talk among the delegates about presenting ex-Congressman John A. Caldwell of Cincinnati for lieutenant governor, if Congressman Shattuc or no other man from Hamilton county got first place.

Owing to the intense feeling over the contested delegations from seven counties, the state central committee attempted to decide what constituted cause for a contest. The committee decided in the case of Hamilton county what did not constitute cause for contest by ruling that contests would be decided on the party law as expounded in the call of this year and not on the calls for state conventions in former years.

This seated the Cox delegation in the temporary organization and gives it full representation for the First and Second congressional districts on all the committees.

The action of the state committee showed an alliance of the field against Nash, that the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces were pulling together on the selection of members of the committee on credentials and in other preliminary work. This would imply the seating of the Holcomb delegations from Cleveland against both the Hanna and McKisson delegations, and it eliminated Mayor McKisson not only from this convention, but also from the old combine with Kurtz, Bushnell and others.

When it comes to balloting for governor the action of the state committee will also have its effect, but the extent of its final influence cannot be predicted.

Congressman Kerr spoke in part as follows:

"I do not delude myself with the belief that I shall here and today sound the keynote of the campaign we are about to enter. Its keynote has been sounded already and elsewhere than here. It has been sounded in Washington and Columbus—in the patriotism and heroism of the administration of President McKinley and in the wisdom and honesty and business of the administration of Governor Bushnell.

"Upon the record of these two splendid Republican administrations, at the end of this campaign we shall win a Republican victory for the Republican party."

He then spoke of the condition of the national treasury and of business, when William McKinley was inaugurated, and the prosperity that had come since his inauguration. He further said in part:

"Even the dyspeptic Populist admits that we are prosperous, and his Democratic ally is so busy gathering in the shekels that he has forgotten to howl. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which cannot be suspected of giving partial testimony favoring the Republican party, had in its issue of May 18 of this year the following: 'We are doing an amazing domestic business. Since the first of the year loans and discounts have been a little over $100,000,000 greater than for the same time last year, and in the entire year a little over $300,000,000. Since the first of the year individuals have prospered so greatly that they have been able to deposit in our banks $204,000,000 more than they deposited in the corresponding months of last year.' And I may add that the business of last year showed a corresponding increase over the year before."

"Using the Enquirer's word, I may say that we are also doing an 'amazing' foreign business. Last year we sold $900,000,000 more than we bought. Statistics show how we have been gradually, under the wise policy adopted and executed by the Republican party, increasing our capacity to supply ourselves and at the same time increase our trade with foreign nations. In the nine months ending March 31, 1898, we were selling abroad $133,000,000 in manufactured articles and buying $70,000,000. In the nine months ending March 31, 1899, we sold abroad $243,000,000 in manufactured articles and bought $194,000,000. The showing as to the iron and steel industries is simply marvelous. In 1890 we bought from abroad $71,000,000 of iron and steel manufactures and sold only $14,000,000. In 1898 we bought only $12,000,000 and sold $70,000,000—we were not only supplying ourselves, but we were capturing the markets of the world."

"In 1893, at the end of the second Cleveland administration, we were buying abroad $1,000,000 a year in iron and steel more than we were selling; in 1898 we sold more than five times as much as we bought.
 "But this was not all the Republican party had to do. It had the financial, business and industrial rehabilitation of the country to accomplish, and with this, almost immediately, were complicated grave questions of foreign intercourse and finally war."
 "For three years before, he said, an oppressed people had been struggling for liberty. President McKinley through diplomacy tried to improve conditions as regarded Cuba. Finally it was necessary to make war. The Democrats were clamorous for war. Said he in part:
 "Their representatives in congress voted with us for the $50,000,000 appropriation to prepare for war and from that on, with the army in the field, and the navy on the sea, their representatives gave their support to no other measure to support the war. 'My country, right, but right or wrong, my country,' should have governed their conduct. Notwithstanding this war ended in victory and we are not here to criticize or complain. There should be no partizanship in patriotism, and I am glad that there are a few in the republic whose hearts do not swell with pride in seeing the flag of our country floating over territory so wide and universal that the rays of the evening sun have not died upon its shining folds until the morning beams flood with light its stars and stripes of glory.
 "Through the war and its results our country will take its true position toward civilization and progress in the future. In the days to come, when the last hundred years of American history have become tradition, when the deeds of the heroes of this century are woven into national song and story three mighty figures will stand above the American world and above all the rest. The first will be Washington, the second will be Lincoln and the third McKinley.
 "In some quarters grave doubts are being expressed as to the future of the republic. So far as these expressions emanate from Democrats, and they are largely from that quarter, they simply express the normal conditions of doubt and distress which are inseparable from the deranged organism and the melancholy soul of the Democratic party. A few others whose souls are not attuned to the music of progress are declaiming against the wrongs and dangers of expansion and imperialism.
 "They say it is unconstitutional and un-American to extend our territory. A distinguished federal judge recently said: 'The people of the United States, without breach of faith to the promises of the past, or serious danger to the expectations of our future; can hold permanently all or a portion of the territory that has been occupied by our troops during the progress of war.' I subscribe to that doctrine. It was not a judicial utterance but it announced the law. If this is not law, constitutional and moral obligations required that we should give back to France the Louisiana territory reaching from the Lake of the Woods to the Balize.' We should give back Florida and Key West to Spain, Texas and the California country with all its gold to Mexico, Alaska to Russia and Hawaii to Queen Lil.

"I do not mean that we should go out into the world seeking territorial conquest. I do not mean that we shall become in any way entangled with foreign countries or interested in their internal polity. We shall not do this. The influence I would yield would come through the force and potency of a splendid navy and splendid merchant marine. I would send ships of war and ships of peace, bearing at their masthead the Stars and Stripes and the white banner of peace into every part of the world and upon every billow of the sea. I would send the products of our shops and factories, of our mines and farms, upon the American ships, manned by American seamen, wherever there were people to buy and water to float the ships. To do this we must have naval and commercial bases abroad. On the other shore of the Pacific, 500,000,000 of people are emerging from barbarism; civilization will multiply their wants and desires a thousand fold, and civilization will supply these wants and satisfy these desires. Our flag now floats at Honolulu, on the Atanton islands, and in the Bay of Manila. With these footholds in the western ocean, we shall secure our share of the imperial commerce of the Orient and add to our industrial supremacy the supremacy of the seas.
 "The Republican party always fulfilled its pledges and fulfilled them promptly. Its promise in 1896 was for the enactment of a tariff law which would protect American labor and American industry. Within 15 days of the inauguration of McKinley congress was assembled in extra session, and in 15 days more the Dingley tariff bill had passed the house. In due time the bill passed the senate.
 "We promised in 1896 that if given the power we would make such amendments to our currency laws as would correct their evils and plant our monetary system upon a basis sound and enduring. No power was given us to make amendments until the election of the present congress, and within 40 days after it had come into existence a Republican committee of its members met and prepared a plan in fulfilling that pledge. As a member of that committee I am not at liberty at this time to disclose even the substance of its determination, but, as a member of the Republican party, I am at liberty to declare what the Republican party proposes to do, now that it has power in both branches of congress and in the executive. It proposes to enact in form of law the gold standard and then it proposes to keep every dollar in use in the country up to that standard.
 "The Republican party is not satisfied with the extensions of the civil service of President Cleveland. We believe that the present states of the civil service does not reflect an honest effort to inaugurate genuine civil service, but rather a successful attempt to wrest from the Republican party the legitimate results of its victory.
 "Before the extensions of the civil service were made by Cleveland, the most expert political manipulators had filled the departments at Washington with Democrats—they did not start fair—civil service is supposed to be non political, and to give every citizen without regard to his position, color, or political affiliation an equal chance for office. Let me show you how the present status accords with that theory. In May, 1898, Hon. E. Palmer, the head of the public printing office, reported to the senate committee, then engaged in investigating the civil service, that in the printing office there were 2,412 Democrats and 590 Republicans. Now, my fellow citizens, for a system whose basis is said to be equality and a fair chance, I submit that the original capitalization was too largely Democratic.
 "More than ten years ago the Republican party in national convention declared as follows: 'We declare our opposition to all combinations of capital, organized in trust or otherwise to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among our citizens; and we recommend to congress and state legislatures in their respective jurisdictions such legislation as will prevent the execution of all schemes to oppress the people by undue charges on their supplies, or by unjust rates for the transportation of the products to market. We approve the legislation of congress to prevent alike unjust burdens and unfair discriminations between the states.' This declaration was within a year of the organization of the first trust in the United States.
 "In the congress following John Sherman, then a senator of the United States, introduced in the senate a bill with a title as follows: 'To declare unlawful trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and production.' On June 26, 1890, this bill became a law with the following title: 'An act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.' In many of the states the Republican party passed laws making unlawful these combinations and monopolies. Republican officials have been industrious and persistent in prosecuting violations of these anti-trust laws, and under decisions rendered in the prosecutions many of these combinations have been dissolved. The supreme court of the United States, a tribunal above politics or political influence, but a majority of whose members are Republicans, rendered decisions which dissolved the Joint Traffic and Trans-Mississippi associations, the gigantic railroad combinations intended to control and fix railroad charges. Other cases are pending wherein the anti-trust laws will be enforced.
 "In Ohio, Republican attorneys generals have been faithful and industrious in prosecuting all combinations or trusts in violation of being the friends of the trusts. The Republican party is against all illegal or wrongful or injurious combinations of capital, whereby it is intended to control prices and suppress competition, and it will enact laws and elect officers to execute them until these combinations are broken up and their existence rendered impossible.
 "The Democratic party claims to be in favor of shortening the hours of labor. So are we.
 "The Republican party is now as it has been since the close of the Civil war in favor of just pensions for Union soldiers, and it is now as it has been since the close of the Spanish war in favor of just pensions for those who fought the Spaniards and the fever in that conflict. Any policy which does not deal justly and liberally with the soldiers of the republic will meet our approbation.
 "The Republicans of Ohio are proud of Ohio's great Senators Foraker and Hanna, both of whom have added lustre and renown to the great positions they hold. Ohio Republicans never forget grand old John Sherman, and to him in his retirement this great convention sends greeting and love. Especially should be remembered on an occasion like this the Republican state executive and state central committees under whose wise direction and by reason of whose faithful labors last year we won a great Republican victory.

"And now, my Republican brethren, let us have peace. Rivalry and competition for place or position or power may have strained a little the bonds of our affection, but it must not, it cannot break the ties which bind us to the Republican party.
 "Now and here in this splendid Republican presence, looking into the faces of our heroes living and looked upon by the pictured faces of our heroes dead, in the name of the Republican party and all it has done for our country, let us strike hands, and following the lead of McKinley and Foraker, and Hanna and Grosvenor and Bushnell and the rest, let us go forth from this convention united and to victory."

RESOLUTIONS COMPLETED.

The Holcomb Delegation From Cleveland and Cox Men From Cincinnati Seated.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The sub-committee on resolutions completed their work. The resolutions commend the last legislature for its legislation against trusts, denounce lynchings, endorse the administrations of President McKinley and Governor Bushnell, recommend a uniform system of selecting delegates from the counties to the state convention, also the advancement of the merchant marine and uniform system of government for municipalities.

The committee on credentials seated the Holcomb delegation from Cleveland, which is divided between Daugherty and Nash. The other two delegations got only four votes out of the 21 on the committee, one of the defeated delegations being headed by ex-Mayor McKisson. The Cox delegates from Hamilton county were seated, as were the Nash delegates from Franklin. The contests in Allen, Adams, Preble and Highland counties were decided without making material changes.

BABY MARION CLARK FOUND.

Restored to Her Parents—Man and Woman Who Had Her Arrested at Garnersville, N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Baby Marion B. Clark has been found and restored to her parents and two alleged kidnapers, a man and a woman, have been placed under arrest. The woman was arrested at Garnersville. The man who was with her a h m was allowed to return to New York city, but he gave himself up at Garnersville.

Attention was first attracted to the woman and child when they called at the postoffice, the woman asking for mail for Mrs. Jennie Wilson. The postmistress noticed the resemblance of the child to the pictures of Baby Clark, and she notified an officer.

The father took the child home. A great crowd cheered the baby and mother when they were called to a window. No reason for the abduction was given.

Court Decided For the Trust.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A part of the agreement of the Trap Rock quarry trust, formed about two years ago, was that only the agent of the trust could sell the stone, and a penalty of $5,000 was prescribed for violating this clause. Brown & Fleming accepted an order. The trust demanded the penalty of $5,000, but the firm refused. The company instituted suit. Brown & Fleming filed a demurrer, setting forth that by the declaration of the plaintiff the company admitted it was a trust and that it was an illegal combination. The New Jersey supreme court gave a decision overruling the demurrer. The four Democratic justices voted against the demurrer. The coal combine was dissolved by Chancellor Magill a few years ago for the same reasons that were advanced in the demurrer.

A HARMONY MASK

Put Over Leaders' Differences In State Convention.

SPEECHES OUTSIDE DEFIANT

DAUGHERTY APPEARED TO LEAD.

The keynote of the address of Huling and Kerr was for harmony—Foraker, Hanna, Bushnell and Foster spoke in the advocacy of forgetting factional differences—Foraker, in an address to the McKisson delegation, told them they were the rightful one—Said he joined them in putting on their fighting clothes—Must let the people of the party have a voice in their councils if they were to have right and prestige—Daugherty made a speech which some interpreted in connection with that of Foraker—Action by the state central committee which indicated that the Cox delegation would be seated, from Hamilton county.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The Republican state convention reassembled at about 10 o'clock this morning.

Daugherty appeared to be in the lead, but the conference continued, however, and the field may next turn on Daugherty. There were those who believed that no winning combination can be formed until after the test of balloting. The committee on rules and order of business, last night, limited all nominating speeches to five minutes, with only one seconding speech of one minute, in anticipation of the convention running late into Friday night or being continued over to Saturday.

The committee on permanent organization decided to report in favor of making the temporary organization permanent.

Among the features of Thursday were the speeches at the hotels that were bitter and defiant, and those at the convention that were all for harmony. The leaders, who joined the chorus at the auditorium from 4 to 6 p. m. in a sort of peace jubilee, spent the night, however, in contests and conferences that were not very harmonious.

The new state committee elected Vivian J. G. Fagin chairman and P. W. Durr secretary and will meet here June 17 for permanent organization.

Hon. Cyrus Huling, as chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order Thursday afternoon. There were demonstrations as Senators Hanna and Foraker entered the hall, and the Glee club commanded such attention as to secure order. Rev. S. S. He then plead for harmony. Mr. Huling announced that the state committee had selected the following temporary organization: Chairman, Hon. W. S. Kerr of Mansfield; secretary, Hon. E. L. Lampson of Ashtabula; sergeant-at-arms, Frederick Bader of Cincinnati.

On being introduced, Congressman Kerr was heartily cheered.

Governor Bushnell created quite an amusing stir in following Senator Hanna, and saying:

Under the call of the 21 congressional districts the following committees were announced:

Senator Foraker created a sensation by declarations which indicated to delegates that he was opposing Senator Hanna. When the members of the McKisson delegation arrived they serenaded Senator Foraker at the Southern hotel, the headquarters of the anti-Hanna and anti-Nash men. The senator said he joined them in putting on his fighting clothes and closed his speech thus:

"We are on the eve of a great political battle and Ohio is to play a most important part in this battle and I say to you that she must be right. This convention is a most important one and if we are to have right and prestige with us we must let the people of our party have a voice in our councils. I say here and now that I believe you men to be loyal, legal representatives of your party and I hope to see you stand in the convention."

Hon. H. M. Daugherty was serenaded and made a speech, which some interpreted in connection with the speech of Senator Foraker as indicating that the field was showing defiance to Senator Hanna and Judge Nash. Mr. Daugherty said in closing: "I have no quarrel with any man within or without the Republican party—unless he should by mistake forget that it is with the province of the people to make the candidate for governor."

At the district meetings in the afternoon the combine, including the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces, had a bare majority and secured control of the committees, including the pivotal point in the organization conceded to be vested in the committee on credentials, but the Hanna and Nash men claimed a majority of the delegates by counties. The first and second districts, after affirming their previous action at Cincinnati, met jointly and adopted a resolution authorizing Chairman Cox to cast the 86 votes of Hamilton county in the convention under the unit rule. There was talk among the delegates about presenting ex-Congressman John A. Caldwell of Cincinnati for lieutenant governor, if Congressman Shattuc or no other man from Hamilton county got first place.

Owing to the intense feeling over the contested delegations from seven counties, the state central committee attempted to decide what constituted cause for a contest. The committee decided in the case of Hamilton county what did not constitute cause for contest by ruling that contests would be decided on the party law as expounded in the call of this year and not on the calls for state conventions in former years.

This seated the Cox delegation in the temporary organization and gives it full representation for the First and Second congressional districts on all the committees.

The action of the state committee showed an alliance of the field against Nash, that the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces were pulling together on the selection of members of the committee on credentials and in other preliminary work. This would imply the seating of the Holcomb delegations from Cleveland against both the Hanna and McKisson delegations, and it eliminated Mayor McKisson not only from this convention, but also from the old combine with Kurtz, Bushnell and others.

When it comes to balloting for governor the action of the state committee will also have its effect, but the extent of its final influence cannot be predicted.

Congressman Kerr spoke in part as follows:

"I do not delude myself with the belief that I shall here and today sound the keynote of the campaign we are about to enter. Its keynote has been sounded already and elsewhere than here. It has been sounded in Washington and Columbus—in the patriotism and heroism of the administration of President McKinley and in the wisdom and honesty and business of the administration of Governor Bushnell."

"Upon the record of these two splendid Republican administrations, at the end of this campaign we shall win a Republican victory for the Republican party."

He then spoke of the condition of the national treasury and of business, when William McKinley was inaugurated, and the prosperity that had come since his inauguration. He further said in part:

"Even the dyspeptic Populist admits that we are prosperous, and his Democratic ally is so busy gathering in the shekels that he has forgotten to howl. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which cannot be suspected of giving partial testimony favoring the Republican party, had in its issue of May 18 of this year the following: 'We are doing an amazing domestic business. Since the first of the year loans and discounts have been a little over $100,000,000 greater than for the same time last year, and in the entire year a little over $300,000,000. Since the first of the year individuals have prospered so greatly that they have been able to deposit in our banks $200,000,000 more than they deposited in the corresponding months of last year.' And I may add that the business of last year showed a corresponding increase over the year before."

"Using the Enquirer's word, I may say that we are also doing an 'amazing' foreign business. Last year we sold $900,000,000 more than we bought. Statistics show how we have been gradually, under the wise policy adopted and executed by the Republican party, increasing our capacity to supply ourselves and at the same time increase our trade with foreign nations. In the nine months ending March 31, 1898, we were selling abroad $113,000,000 in manufactured articles and buying $70,000,000. In the nine months ending March 31, 1899, we sold abroad $242,000,000 in manufactured articles and bought $194,000,000. The showing as to the iron and steel industries is simply marvelous. In 1898 we bought from abroad $71,000,000 of iron and steel manufactures and sold only $14,999,000. In 1899 we bought only $12,999,000 and sold $70,000,000—we were not only supplying ourselves, but we were capturing the markets of the world."

"In 1893, at the end of the second Cleveland administration, we were buying abroad $1,000,000 a year in iron and steel more than we were selling; in 1899 we sold more than five times as much as we bought."

"But this was not all the Republican party had to do. It had the financial, business and industrial rehabilitation of the country to accomplish, and with this, almost immediately, were complicated grave questions of foreign intercourse and finally war."

For three years before, he said, an oppressed people had been struggling for liberty. President McKinley through diplomacy tried to improve conditions as regarded Cuba. Finally it was necessary to make war. The Democrats were clamorous for war. Said he in part:

"Their representatives in congress voted with us for the $50,000,000 appropriation to prepare for war and from that on, with the army in the field, and the navy on the sea, their representatives gave their support to no other measure to support the war. 'My country, right or wrong, my country,' should have governed their conduct. Notwithstanding this war ended in victory and we are not here to criticize or complain. There should be no partisanship in patriotism, and I am glad that there are a few in the republic whose hearts do not swell with pride in seeing the flag of our country floating over territory so wide and universal that the rays of the evening sun have not died upon its shining folds until the morning beams flood with light its stars and stripes of glory."

"Through the war and its results our country will take its true position toward civilization and progress in the future. In the days to come, when the last hundred years of American history have become tradition, when the deeds of the heroes of this century are woven into national song and story three mighty figures will stand above the American world and above all the rest. The first will be Washington, the second will be Lincoln and the third McKinley."

"In some quarters grave doubts are being expressed as to the future of the republic. So far as these expressions emanate from Democrats, and they are largely from that quarter, they simply express the normal conditions of doubt and distress which are inseparable from the deranged organism and the melancholy soul of the Democratic party. A few others whose souls are not attuned to the music of progress are declaiming against the wrongs and dangers of expansion and imperialism."

"They say it is unconstitutional and un-American to extend our territory. A distinguished federal judge recently said: 'The people of the United States, without breach of faith to the promises of the past, or serious danger to the expectations of our future, can hold permanently all or a portion of the territory that has been occupied by our troops during the progress of war.' I subscribe to that doctrine. It was not a judicial utterance."

but it announced the law. If this is not law, constitutional and moral obligations required that we should give back to France the Louisiana territory reaching from the Lake of the Woods to the Baltic." We should give back Florida and Key West to Spain, Texas and the California country with all its gold to Mexico, Alaska to Russia and Hawaii to Queen Lil.

"I do not mean that we should go out into the world seeking territorial conquest. I do not mean that we shall become in any way entangled with foreign countries or interested in their internal polity. We shall not do this. The influence I would yield would come through the force and potency of a splendid navy and splendid merchant marine. I would send ships of war and ships of peace, bearing at their masthead the Stars and Stripes and the white banner of peace into every part of the world and upon every billow of the sea. I would send the products of our shops and factories, of our mines and farms, upon the American ships, manned by American seamen, wherever there were people to buy and water to float the ships. To do this we must have naval and commercial bases abroad. On the other shore of the Pacific, 500,000,000 of people are emerging from barbarism; civilization will multiply their wants and desires a thousand fold, and civilization will supply these wants and satisfy these desires. Our flag now floats at Honolulu, on the Atlaton islands, and in the Bay of Manila. With these footholds in the western ocean, we shall secure our share of the imperial commerce of the Orient and add to our industrial supremacy the supremacy of the seas."

"The Republican party always fulfilled its pledges and fulfilled them promptly. Its promise in 1896 was for the enactment of a tariff law which would protect American labor and American industry. Within 15 days of the inauguration of McKinley congress was assembled in extra session, and in 15 days more the Dingley tariff bill had passed the house. In due time the bill passed the senate."

"We promised in 1896 that if given the power we would make such amendments to our currency laws as would correct their evils and plant our monetary system upon a basis sound and enduring. No power was given us to make amendments until the election of the present congress, and within 40 days after it had come into existence a Republican committee of its members met and prepared a plan in fulfilling that pledge. As a member of that committee I am not at liberty at this time to disclose even the substance of its determination, but, as a member of the Republican party, I am at liberty to declare what the Republican party proposes to do, now that it has power in both branches of congress and in the executive. It proposes to enact in form of law the gold standard and then it proposes to keep every dollar in use in the country up to that standard."

"The Republican party is not satisfied with the extensions of the civil service of President Cleveland. We believe that the present states of the civil service does not reflect an honest effort to inaugurate genuine civil service, but rather a successful attempt to wrest from the Republican party the legitimate results of its victory."

"Before the extensions of the civil service were made by Cleveland, the most expert political manipulators had filled the departments at Washington with Democrats—they did not start fair—civil service is supposed to be non-political, and to give every citizen without regard to his position, color, or political affiliation an equal chance for office. Let me show you how the present status accords with that theory. In May, 1898, Hon. E. Palmer, the head of the public printing office, reported to the senate committee, then engaged in investigating the civil service, that in the printing office there were 2,412 Democrats and 560 Republicans. Now, my fellow citizens, for a system whose basis is said to be equality and a fair chance, I submit that the original capitalization was too largely Democratic."

"More than ten years ago the Republican party in national convention declared as follows: 'We declare our opposition to all combinations of capital, organized in trust or otherwise to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among our citizens; and we recommend to congress and state legislatures in their respective jurisdictions such legislation as will prevent the execution of all schemes to oppress the people by undue charges on their supplies, or by unjust rates for the transportation of the products to market. We approve the legislation of congress to prevent alike unjust burdens and unfair discriminations between the states.' This declaration was within a year of the organization of the first trust in the United States."

"In the congress following John Sherman, then a senator of the United States, introduced in the senate a bill with a title as follows: 'To declare unlawful trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and production.' On June 26, 1890, this bill became a law with the following title: 'An act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.' In many of the states the Republican party passed laws making unlawful these combinations and monopolies. Republican officials have been industrious and persistent in prosecuting violations of these anti-trust laws, and under decisions rendered in the prosecutions many of these combinations have been dissolved. The supreme court of the United States, a tribunal above politics or political influence, but a majority of whose members are Republicans, rendered decisions which dissolved the Joint Traffic and Trans-Mississippi associations, the gigantic railroad combinations intended to control and fix railroad charges. Other cases are pending wherein the anti-trust laws will be enforced."

"In Ohio, Republican attorneys general have been faithful and industrious in prosecuting all combinations or trusts in violation of being the friends of the trusts. The Republican party is against all illegal or wrongful or injurious combinations of capital, whereby it is intended to control prices and suppress competition, and it will enact laws and elect officers to execute them until these combinations are broken up and their existence rendered impossible."

"The Democratic party claims to be in favor of shortening the hours of labor. So are we. 'The Republican party is now as it has been since the close of the Civil war in favor of just pensions for Union soldiers, and it is now as it has been since the close of the Spanish war in favor of just pensions for those who fought the Spaniards and the fever in that conflict. Any policy which does not deal justly and liberally with the soldiers of the republic will not meet our approbation."

"The Republicans of Ohio are proud of Ohio's great Senators Foraker and Hanna, both of whom have added lustre and renown to the great positions they hold. Ohio Republicans never forget grand old John Sherman, and to him in his retirement this great convention sends greeting and love. Especially should be remembered on an occasion like this the Republican state executive and state central committees under whose wise direction and by reason of whose faithful labors last year we won a great Republican victory."

"And now, my Republican brethren, let us have peace. Rivalry and competition for place or position or power may have strained a little the bonds of our affection, but it must not, it cannot break the ties which bind us to the Republican party."

"Now and here in this splendid Republican presence, looking into the faces of our heroes living and looked upon by the pictured faces of our heroes dead, in the name of the Republican party and all it has done for our country, let us strike hands, and following the lead of McKinley and Foraker, and Hanna and Grosvenor and Bushnell and the rest, let us go forth from this convention united and to victory."

RESOLUTIONS COMPLETED.

The Holcomb Delegation From Cleveland and Cox Men From Cincinnati Seated.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The sub-committee on resolutions completed their work. The resolutions commend the last legislature for its legislation against trusts, denounce lynchings, endorse the administrations of President McKinley and Governor Bushnell, recommend a uniform system of selecting delegates from the counties to the state convention, also the advancement of the merchant marine and uniform system of government for municipalities.

The committee on credentials seated the Holcomb delegation from Cleveland, which is divided between Daugherty and Nash. The other two delegations got only four votes out of the 21 on the committee, one of the defeated delegations being headed by ex-Mayor McKisson. The Cox delegates from Hamilton county were seated, as were the Nash delegates from Franklin. The contests in Allen, Adams, Preble and Highland counties were decided without making material changes.

BABY MARION CLARK FOUND.

Restored to Her Parents—Man and Woman Who Had Her Arrested at Garnersville, N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Baby Marion B. Clark has been found and restored to her parents and two alleged kidnapers, a man and a woman, have been placed under arrest. The woman was arrested at Garnersville. The man who was with her a hot m was allowed to return to New York city, but he gave himself up at Garnersville.

Attention was first attracted to the woman and child when they called at the postoffice, the woman asking for mail for Mrs. Jennie Wilson. The postmistress noticed the resemblance of the child to the pictures of Baby Clark, and she notified an officer.

The father took the child home. A great crowd cheered the baby and mother when they were called to a window. No reason for the abduction was given.

Court Decided For the Trust.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A part of the agreement of the Trap Rock quarry trust, formed about two years ago, was that only the agent of the trust could sell the stone, and a penalty of $5,000 was prescribed for violating this clause. Brown & Fleming accepted an order. The trust demanded the penalty of $5,000, but the firm refused. The company instituted suit. Brown & Fleming filed a demurrer, setting forth that by the declaration of the plaintiff the company admitted it was a trust and that it was an illegal combination. The New Jersey supreme court gave a decision overruling the demurrer. The four Democratic justices voted against the demurrer. The coal combine was dissolved by Chancellor Magill a few years ago for the same reasons that were advanced in the demurrer.

A HARMONY MASK

Put Over Leaders' Differences In State Convention.

SPEECHES OUTSIDE DEFIANT

The Convention Again Convened This Morning.

DAUGHERTY APPEARED TO LEAD.

The Keynote of the Address of Huling and Kerr Was For Harmony—Foraker, Hanna, Bushnell and Foster Spoke In the Advocacy of Forgetting Factional Differences—Foraker, In an Address to the McKisson Delegation, Told Them They Were the Rightful One—Said, He Joined Them In Putting On Their Fighting Clothes—Must Let the People of the Party Have a Voice In Their Councils If They Were to Have Right and Prestige—Daugherty Made a Speech Which Some Interpreted In Connection With That of Foraker—Action by the State Central Committee Which Indicated That the Cox Delegation Would Be Seated, From Hamilton County.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The Republican state convention reassembled at about 10 o'clock this morning.

Daugherty appeared to be in the lead, but the conference continued, however, and the field may next turn on Daugherty. There were those who believed that no winning combination can be formed until after the test of balloting. The committee on rules and order of business, last night, limited all nominating speeches to five minutes, with only one seconding speech of one minute, in anticipation of the convention running late into Friday night or being continued over to Saturday.

The committee on permanent organization decided to report in favor of making the temporary organization permanent.

Among the features of Thursday were the speeches at the hotels that were bitter and defiant, and those at the convention that were all for harmony. The leaders, who joined the chorus at the auditorium from 4 to 6 p. m. in a sort of peace jubilee, spent the night, however, in contests and conferences that were not very harmonious.

While the forces of Cox, Daugherty and Kurtz combined against Nash as the Hanna candidate in all the preliminary work, yet this combine can not apparently get together on any one man for governor. Cox wants a dark horse, and is grooming Shattuc till he names his favorite. Foraker wants Jones. Kurtz doesn't want Jones or Daugherty if he can get someone he likes better. Meantime, Daugherty insists that he has more votes than Jones, Cox and Kurtz can command, that they should come to him if they want to defeat Nash and thereby indirectly defeat Hanna. It is in this complication that Nevins is likely to be brought out.

The new state committee elected Vivian J. G. Fagin chairman and P. W. Durr secretary and will meet here June 17 for permanent organization.

Hon. Cyrus Huling, as chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order Thursday afternoon. There were demonstrations as Senators Hanna and Foraker entered the hall, and the Glee club commanded attention as to secure order. Rev. S. S. Palmer offered prayer, after which Chairman Huling in part said:

"The Republicans of Ohio are deeply in earnest this year. They feel that the prosperity of the country, the expansion of our commerce and the honor of the flag they love depend upon the endorsement of Mr. McKinley this year by the triumphant election of the candidates nominated at this convention and his renomination and re-election next year to the high place he now holds."

He then pled for harmony.

Mr. Huling announced that the state committee had selected the following temporary organization: Chairman, Hon. W. S. Kerr of Mansfield; secretary, Hon. E. L. Lamson of Ashtabula; sergeant-at-arms, Frederick Bader of Cincinnati.

On being introduced, Congressman Kerr was heartily cheered. The delegates took up his keynote for harmony, and proceeded to call on certain leaders for speeches. All responded except General Grosvenor, who had left the hall, and ex-Governor Foster was called out in his place.

Senator Foraker said there were very many things for Ohio Republicans to talk about just now, and to think about and to act on wisely, and he commended the speech of Mr. Kerr as the true keynote for them. He joined in the plea for peace. The great duty of Ohio Republicans was to get together. United, they were invincible, and divided, they were beaten in advance. They needed not only a good platform, but also a standardbearer who was the very strongest man, no matter what was his name or his past affiliations in the party. There has not been in the present generation such an important election in Ohio, none ever more easy for Republicans to carry, and yet never one they could more easily lose. Ohio is the home of McKinley and should head the column for next year.

Senator Hanna made a most vigorous appeal for harmony. He referred to the speeches of Huling, Kerr and Foraker that had been made for harmony, and urged that it would be necessary for all to work together if the Republicans won in Ohio this year. He said no man was as great as his party, although the Democratic papers were now trying to make out a case of some Republicans being greater than their party. He said:

"The Democratic papers cannot run this convention. We know our own business better than they. We have been in politics as long as they. Our experience is better, our motives purer, our aims higher."

Senator Hanna said they would like one another better the longer they looked into each other's faces, and that they would find out tomorrow (Friday) that there were no differences in the party. He urged such harmony and such organization as would give them the confidence of the president, with an army and navy to back up his policies. Like all the preceding speakers, he eulogized President McKinley and pleaded for success this year and his interest next year.

Governor Bushnell created quite an amusing stir in following Senator Hanna, and saying:

"There appears to be every evidence of harmony here. That's what we need; that's what we all want." He continued on the keynote for peace and harmony, as did also ex-Governor Charles Foster, who followed him in a speech urging the factions to get together.

Under the call of the 21 congressional districts the following committees were announced:

Resolutions—First district, Cox, Judge James B. Swing; anti-Cox, Charles H. Stevens; Second, Cox, Scott Bonham; anti-Cox, J. Chandler Harris; Third, Isaac Hale; Fourth, Robert D. Bingham; Fifth, H. C. Glenn; Sixth, L. A. Edwards; Seventh, McPherson Brown; Eighth, W. A. Bell; Ninth, Dr. Walker; Tenth, Stephen Morgan; Eleventh, Otto Valenwinder; Twelfth, L. G. Silbaugh; Thirteenth, J. D. Finch; Fourteenth, W. C. Cooper; Fifteenth, H. V. VanVoorhis; Sixteenth, J. Dunbar; Seventeenth, Judge M. L. Smyser; Eighteenth, R. W. Taylor; Nineteenth, John J. Sullivan; Twentieth, C. A. Judson and George B. Basche; Twenty-first, Holcomb delegation, M. E. Herrick; Hanna, E. T. Anderson; McKisson, Harry Vail.

Credentials—First district, Cox, August Herman; anti-Cox, W. L. Little; Second, Cox, Joseph F. Kushman; anti-Cox, Charles Evans; Third, Dr. J. E. Lowe; Fourth, Frank T. Conkling; Fifth, F. D. Prentiss; Sixth, Charles H. Eulas; Seventh, R. H. McClellan; Eighth, Otis H. Kimball; Ninth, Colonel J. C. Bonner; Tenth, Philo S. Clark; Eleventh, A. W. Voorhees; Twelfth, A. I. Vorys; Thirteenth, W. C. Brown; Fourteenth, G. M. Skiles; Fifteenth, S. D. Aldeman; Sixteenth, Paul B. Worthington; Seventeenth, W. B. Moody; Eighteenth, G. E. Baldwin; Nineteenth, G. W. Selhor; Twentieth, J. H. Brooner and Abraham Kramer; Twenty-first, Holcomb delegation, T. J. Wing; Hanna, David Morrison; McKisson, Walter Meals.

State central committee—First district, Cox, V. J. Fagin; anti-Cox, J. L. Steele; Second, Cox, Peter W. Durr; anti-Cox, William Ford; Third, O. A. Craighead; Fourth, S. M. Fletcher; Fifth, W. H. McClintock; Sixth, W. H. Walker; Seventh, C. C. Chappellear; Eighth, S. F. Dewol; Ninth, Percy White; Tenth, S. H. Eagle; Eleventh, J. C. Kelley; Twelfth, Dr. Frank McCafferty; Thirteenth, P. F. McNeal; Fourteenth, E. M. Pierce; Fifteenth, T. J. Masterson; Sixteenth, J. A. Beal; Seventeenth, George A. Hay; Eighteenth, M. A. Norris; Nineteenth, C. P. Sherry; Twentieth, R. B. Hubbard and Jacob Beidler; Twenty-first, Holcomb delegation, B. Mallin; Hanna, F. M. Chandler; McKisson, Fred L. Taft.

Senator Foraker created a sensation by declarations which indicated to delegates that he was opposing Senator Hanna. When the members of the McKisson delegation arrived they serenaded Senator Foraker at the Southern hotel, the headquarters of the anti-Hanna and anti-Nash men. The senator said he joined them in putting on his fighting clothes and closed his speech thus:

"We are on the eve of a great political battle and Ohio is to play a most important part in this battle and I say to you that she must be right. This convention is a most important one and if we are to have right and prestige with us we must let the people of our party have a voice in our councils. I say here and now that I believe you men to be loyal, legal representatives of your party and I hope to see you stand in the convention."

Hon. H. M. Daugherty was serenaded and made a speech, which some interpreted in connection with the speech of Senator Foraker as indicating that the field was showing defiance to Senator Hanna and Judge Nash. Mr. Daugherty said in closing: "I have no quarrel with any man within or without the Republican party—unless he should by mistake forget that it is within the province of the people to make the candidate for governor."

At the district meetings in the afternoon the combine, including the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces, had a bare majority and secured control of the committees, including the pivotal point in the organization conceded to be vested in the committee on credentials, but the Hanna and Nash men claimed a majority of the delegates by counties. The first and second districts, after affirming their previous action at Cincinnati, met jointly and adopted a resolution authorizing Chairman Cox to cast the 86 votes of Hamilton county in the convention under the unit rule. There was talk among the delegates about presenting ex-Congressman John A. Caldwell of Cincinnati for lieutenant governor, if Congressman Shattuc or no other man from Hamilton county got first place.

Owing to the intense feeling over the contested delegations from seven counties, the state central committee attempted to decide what constituted cause for a contest. The committee decided in the case of Hamilton county what did not constitute cause for contest by ruling that contests would be decided on the party law as expounded in the call of this year and not on the calls for state conventions in former years.

This seated the Cox delegation in the temporary organization and gives it full representation for the First and Second congressional districts on all the committees.

The action of the state committee showed an alliance of the field against Nash, that the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces were pulling together on the selection of members of the committee on credentials and in other preliminary work. This would imply the seating of the Holcomb delegations from Cleveland against both the Hanna and McKisson delegations, and it eliminated Mayor McKisson not only from this convention, but also from the old combine with Kurtz, Bushnell and others.

When it comes to balloting for governor the action of the state committee will also have its effect, but the extent of its final influence cannot be predicted.

Congressman Kerr spoke in part as follows:

"I do not delude myself with the belief that I shall here and today sound the keynote of the campaign we are about to enter. Its keynote has been sounded already and elsewhere than here. It has been sounded in Washington and Columbus—in the patriotism and heroism of the administration of President McKinley and in the wisdom and honesty and business of the administration of Governor Bushnell."

"Upon the record of these two splendid Republican administrations, at the end of this campaign we shall win a Republican victory for the Republican party."

He then spoke of the condition of the national treasury and of business, when William McKinley was inaugurated, and the prosperity that had come since his inauguration. He further said in part:

"Even the dyspeptic Populist admits that we are prosperous, and his Democratic ally is so busy gathering in the shekels that he has forgotten to howl. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which cannot be suspected of giving partial testimony favoring the Republican party, had in its issue of May 18 of this year the following: 'We are doing an amazing domestic business. Since the first of the year loans and discounts have been a little over $100,000,000 greater than for the same time last year. And in the entire year a little over $300,000,000. Since the first of the year individuals have prospered so greatly that they have been able to deposit in our banks $20,000,000 more than they deposited in the corresponding months of last year.' And I may add that the business of last year showed a corresponding increase over the year before."

"Using the Enquirer's word, I may say that we are also doing an 'amazing' foreign business. Last year we sold $900,000,000 more than we bought. Statistics show how we have been gradually, under the wise policy adopted and executed by the Republican party, increasing our capacity to supply ourselves and at the same time increase our trade with foreign nations. In the nine months ending March 31, 1898, we were selling abroad $113,000,000 in manufactured articles and buying $70,000,000. In the nine months ending March 31, 1899, we sold abroad $242,000,000 in manufactured articles and bought $194,000,000. The showing as to the iron and steel industries is simply marvelous. In 1898 we bought from abroad $71,000,000 of iron and steel manufactures and sold only $14,000,000. In 1898 we bought only $12,000,000 and sold $70,000,000—we were not only supplying ourselves, but we were capturing the markets of the world."

"In 1893, at the end of the second Cleveland administration, we were buying abroad $4,000,000 a year in iron and steel more than we were selling; in 1898 we sold more than five times as much as we bought."

"But this was not all the Republican party had to do. It had the financial, business and industrial rehabilitation of the country to accomplish, and with this, almost immediately, were complicated grave questions of foreign intercourse and finally war."

For three years before, he said, an oppressed people had been struggling for liberty. President McKinley through diplomacy tried to improve conditions as regarded Cuba. Finally it was necessary to make war. The Democrats were clamorous for war. Said he in part:

"Their representatives in congress voted with us for the $51,000,000 appropriation to prepare for war and from that on, with the army in the field, and the navy on the sea, their representatives gave their support to no other measure to support the war. 'My country, right, but right or wrong, my country,' should have governed their conduct. Notwithstanding this war ended in victory and we are not here to criticize or complain. There should be no partisanship in patriotism, and I am glad that there are a few in the republic whose hearts do not swell with pride in seeing the flag of our country floating over territory so wide and universal that the rays of the evening sun have not died upon its shining folds until the morning beams flood with light its stars and stripes of glory."

"Through the war and its results our country will take its true position toward civilization and progress in the future. In the days to come, when the last hundred years of American history have become tradition, when the deeds of the heroes of this century are woven into national song and story three mighty figures will stand above the American world and above all the rest. The first will be Washington, the second will be Lincoln and the third McKinley."

"In some quarters grave doubts are being expressed as to the future of the republic. So far as these expressions emanate from Democrats, and they are largely from that quarter, they simply express the normal conditions of doubt and distress which are inseparable from the deranged organism and the melancholy soul of the Democratic party. A few others whose souls are not attuned to the music of progress are declaiming against the wrongs and dangers of expansion and imperialism."

"They say it is unconstitutional and un-American to extend our territory. A distinguished federal judge recently said: 'The people of the United States, without breach of faith to the promises of the past, or serious danger to the expectations of our future; can hold permanently all or a portion of the territory that has been occupied by our troops during the progress of war.' I subscribe to that doctrine. It was not a judicial utterance."

but it announced the law. If this is not law, constitutional and moral obligations required that we should give back to France the Louisiana territory reaching from the Lake of the Woods to the Balize. We should give back Florida and Key West to Spain, Texas and the California country with all its gold to Mexico, Alaska to Russia and Hawaii to Queen Lil."

"I do not mean that we should go out into the world seeking territorial conquest. I do not mean that we shall become in any way entangled with foreign countries or interested in their internal polity. We shall not do this. The influence I would yield would come through the force and potency of a splendid navy and splendid merchant marine. I would send ships of war and ships of peace, bearing at their masthead the Stars and Stripes and the white banner of peace into every part of the world and upon every billow of the sea. I would send the products of our shops and factories, of our mines and farms, upon the American ships, manned by American seamen, wherever there were people to buy and water to float the ships. To do this we must have naval and commercial bases abroad. On the other shore of the Pacific, 500,000,000 of people are emerging from barbarism; civilization will multiply their wants and desires a thousand fold, and civilization will supply these wants and satisfy these desires. Our flag now floats at Honolulu, on the Alutian islands, and in the Bay of Manila. With these footholds in the western ocean, we shall secure our share of the imperial commerce of the Orient and add to our industrial supremacy the supremacy of the seas."

"The Republican party always fulfilled its pledges and fulfilled them promptly. Its promise in 1896 was for the enactment of a tariff law which would protect American labor and American industry. Within 15 days of the inauguration of McKinley congress was assembled in extra session, and in 15 days more the Dingley tariff bill had passed the house. In due time the bill passed the senate."

"We promised in 1896 that if given the power we would make such amendments to our currency laws as would correct their evils and plant our monetary system upon a basis sound and enduring. No power was given us to make amendments until the election of the present congress, and within 40 days after it had come into existence a Republican committee of its members met and prepared a plan in fulfilling that pledge. As a member of that committee I am not at liberty at this time to disclose even the substance of its determination, but, as a member of the Republican party, I am at liberty to declare what the Republican party proposes to do, now that it has power in both branches of congress and in the executive. It proposes to enact in form of law the gold standard and then it proposes to keep every dollar in use in the country up to that standard."

"The Republican party is not satisfied with the extensions of the civil service of President Cleveland. We believe that the present states of the civil service does not reflect an honest effort to inaugurate genuine civil service, but rather a successful attempt to wrest from the Republican party the legitimate results of its victory."

"Before the extensions of the civil service were made by Cleveland, the most expert political manipulators had filled the departments at Washington with Democrats—they did not start fair—civil service is supposed to be non-political, and to give every citizen without regard to his position, color, or political affiliation an equal chance for office. Let me show you how the present status accords with that theory. In May, 1898, Hon. F. Palmer, the head of the public printing office, reported to the senate committee, then engaged in investigating the civil service, that in the printing office there were 2,412 Democrats and 590 Republicans. Now, my fellow citizens, for a system whose basis is said to be equality and a fair chance, I submit that the original capitalization was too largely Democratic."

"More than ten years ago the Republican party in national convention declared as follows: 'We declare our opposition to all combinations of capital, organized in trust or otherwise to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among our citizens; and we recommend to congress and state legislatures in their respective jurisdictions such legislation as will prevent the execution of all schemes to oppress the people by undue charges on their supplies, or by unjust rates for the transportation of the products to market. We approve the legislation of congress to prevent alike unjust burdens and unfair discriminations between the states.' This declaration was within a year of the organization of the first trust in the United States."

"In the congress following John Sherman, then a senator of the United States, introduced in the senate a bill with a title as follows: 'To declare unlawful trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and production.' On June 26, 1890, this bill became a law with the following title: 'An act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.' In many of the states the Republican party passed laws making unlawful these combinations and monopolies. Republican officials have been industrious and persistent in prosecuting violations of these anti-trust laws, and under decisions rendered in the prosecutions many of these combinations have been dissolved. The supreme court of the United States, a tribunal above politics or political influence, but a majority of whose members are Republicans, rendered decisions which dissolved the Joint Traffic and Trans-Mississippi associations, the gigantic railroad combinations intended to control and fix railroad charges. Other cases are pending wherein the anti-trust laws will be enforced."

"In Ohio, Republican attorneys generals have been faithful and industrious in prosecuting all combinations or trusts in violation of being the friends of the trusts. The Republican party is against all illegal or wrongful or injurious combinations of capital, whereby it is intended to control prices and suppress competition, and it will enact laws and elect officers to execute them until these combinations are broken up and their existence rendered impossible."

"The Democratic party claims to be in favor of shortening the hours of labor. So are we. The Republican party is now as it has been since the close of the Civil war in favor of just pensions for Union soldiers, and it is now as it has been since the close of the Spanish war in favor of just pensions for those who fought the Spaniards and the fever in that conflict. Any policy which does not deal justly and liberally with the soldiers of the republic will not meet our approbation."

"The Republicans of Ohio are proud of Ohio's great Senators Foraker and Hanna, both of whom have added lustre and renown to the great positions they hold. Ohio Republicans never forget grand old John Sherman, and to him in his retirement this great convention sends greeting and love. Especially should be remembered on an occasion like this the Republican state executive and state central committees under whose wise direction and by reason of whose faithful labors last year we won a great Republican victory."

"And now, my Republican brethren, let us have peace. Rivalry and competition for place or position or power may have strained a little the bonds of our affection, but it must not, it cannot break the ties which bind us to the Republican party."

"Now and here in this splendid Republican presence, looking into the faces of our heroes living and looked upon by the pictured faces of our heroes dead, in the name of the Republican party and all it has done for our country, let us strike hands, and following the lead of McKinley and Foraker, and Hanna and Grosvenor and Bushnell and the rest, let us go forth from this convention united and to victory."

RESOLUTIONS COMPLETED.

The Holcomb Delegation From Cleveland and Cox Men From Cincinnati Seated.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The sub-committee on resolutions completed their work. The resolutions commend the last legislature for its legislation against trusts, denounce lynchings, endorse the administrations of President McKinley and Governor Bushnell, recommend a uniform system of selecting delegates from the counties to the state convention, also the advancement of the merchant marine and uniform system of government for municipalities.

The committee on credentials seated the Holcomb delegation from Cleveland, which is divided between Daugherty and Nash. The other two delegations got only four votes out of the 21 on the committee, one of the defeated delegations being headed by ex-Mayor McKisson. The Cox delegates from Hamilton county were seated, as were the Nash delegates from Franklin. The contests in Allen, Adams, Preble and Highland counties were decided without making material changes.

BABY MARION CLARK FOUND.

Restored to Her Parents—Man and Woman Who Had Her Arrested at Garnersville, N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Baby Marion B. Clark has been found and restored to her parents and two alleged kidnapers, a man and a woman, have been placed under arrest. The woman was arrested at Garnersville. The man who was with her a h. t. m. was allowed to return to New York city, but he gave himself up at Garnersville.

Attention was first attracted to the woman and child when they called at the postoffice, the woman asking for mail for Mrs. Jennie Wilson. The postmistress noticed the resemblance of the child to the pictures of Baby Clark, and she notified an officer.

The father took the child home. A great crowd charred the baby and mother when they were called to a window. No reason for the abduction was given.

Court Decided For the Trust.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A part of the agreement of the Trap Rock quarry trust, formed about two years ago, was that only the agent of the trust could sell the stone, and a penalty of $5,000 was prescribed for violating this clause. Brown & Fleming accepted an order. The trust demanded the penalty of $5,000, but the firm refused. The company instituted suit. Brown & Fleming filed a demurrer, setting forth that by the declaration of the plaintiff the company admitted it was a trust and that it was an illegal combination. The New Jersey supreme court gave a decision overruling the demurrer. The four Democratic justices voted against the demurrer. The coal combine was dissolved by Chancellor Magill a few years ago for the same reasons that were advanced in the demurrer.

THE EAST END.

NO TIME HAS BEEN SET

All Depends on the Meeting In New York City

WHEN PIPE WORKS WILL START

Many Improvements Have Been Made on Machinery and Kilns—Albert Shenkle Is Recovering From the Injuries Received Memorial Day.

There is no definite time set for the Knowles, Taylor & Anderson plant to resume operations. Mr. Anderson is still in New York city attending a meeting of the promoters of the sewer pipe trust, and when he returns it is thought something definite relative to the starting of the big works will be known. Since the plant shut down during the holidays many improvements have been made to the machinery and kilns and everything is in readiness to put the plant in operation on short notice. The stock of pipe is very low, and as several car loads are shipped every day it is getting lower and within a few weeks if the present rate of shipping is continued there will be very little pipe left to sell.

STARTED TO PAVE.

Wet Weather Causing Much Inconvenience to the Work on Pennsylvania Ave.

The wet weather is interfering seriously with the improving of Pennsylvania avenue. Yesterday afternoon after about 50 yards of paving had been completed the 22 men working under Contractor Rinehart were compelled to quit work. The work has been delayed considerably on account of the weather, but with several bright days the work will be extended considerably. The grading is slow work, but much of the hill on the north side of the street railway has been taken away. The large rocks in the hill that have been exposed on account of the grading cannot be blasted. If any explosive matter is used the hill will be damaged to some extent and the houses above it will be endangered.

The telephone poles between Mulberry street and Virginia avenue will be moved by the company as soon as the construction force can be secured.

ALMOST FATAL.

Albert Shenkle Recovering From a Wound In His Head.

Albert Shenkle, who was mysteriously injured Memorial day, is lying at his home suffering great pain. It has been found that a vein in his head had been injured, and the physicians say that if he would have been allowed to remain unattended much longer on Tuesday it would have caused his death. Wednesday night he was unable to sleep on account of the injury, but it is thought he is now out of danger.

CONGRESSMAN TAYLER

Interviewed In Columbus on His Choice For Speaker.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Hon. R. W. Tayler, of the Eighteenth district, in an interview said he favored either Henderson, of Iowa, or Sherman, of New York, for speaker. He did not believe it was a fight between the east and west for the speakership, but thought Ohio could name the speaker, if the delegation voted as a unit. On the governorship he was noncommittal, having a candidate from his own county, Hon. I. B. Cameron, for treasurer of state, and declined to say who he favored. It is but fair to believe that Mr. Tayler is for anybody the national administration wants.

Prominent Citizen Thinks the Police Matter Will Not End at the Trial.

It has been several days since there was anything new in the cases of Officers Whan and Grim and the matter seems to have died out, but it is only for the time being and there may be some new developments soon. A prominent citizen who is very intimate with one of the officers made the following statement to a reporter this morning: "Don't think this thing will end now. If the charges are not substantiated there may be trouble for somebody. Charges of this kind are serious and are hard to prove."

TEN DOLLAR SUIT SALE.

$12, $14, $15, $16 Suits for $10.

A semi-Annual Clearance of Broken Lots to Prevent Accumulation.

TO men who have a proper conception of a well regulated business, this terse explanation for cutting prices in the heart of a season will be appreciated. One hundred suits come in of a kind, 50 of another, 150 of another, and so the stock is bought. It is impossible to sell out to the last suit of any lot, because no matter how desirable the patterns may be, no matter how great the value, a man who wants a size 40 has no use for a size 36, and so on. And so these odds and ends, sold far below regular prices, are in truth a gathering of the best sellers, mostly fresh spring '99 makes, though some from previous seasons, worth up to $16, have been included.

A gathering of remnants and a sale to prevent accumulation—in other words we prefer to give our customers $12, $15 $16 suits now for $10 than to carry them over and perhaps sell for less. The first loss to us is the wisest in more ways than one.

There is no definite time set for the Knowles, Taylor & Anderson plant to resume operations. Mr. Anderson is still in New York city attending a meeting of the promoters of the sewer pipe trust, and when he returns it is thought something definite relative to the starting of the big works will be known. Since the plant shut down during the holidays many improvements have been made to the machinery and kilns and everything is in readiness to put the plant in operation on short notice. The stock of pipe is very low, and as several car loads are shipped every day it is getting lower and within a few weeks if the present rate of shipping is continued there will be very little pipe left to sell.

STARTED TO PAVE.

Wet Weather Causing Much Inconvenience to the Work on Pennsylvania Ave.

The wet weather is interfering seriously with the improving of Pennsylvania avenue. Yesterday afternoon after about 50 yards of paving had been completed the 22 men working under Contractor Rinehart were compelled to quit work. The work has been delayed considerably on account of the weather, but with several bright days the work will be extended considerably. The grading is slow work, but much of the hill on the north side of the street railway has been taken away. The large rocks in the hill that have been exposed on account of the grading cannot be blasted. If any explosive matter is used the hill will be damaged to some extent and the houses above it will be endangered.

The telephone poles between Mulberry street and Virginia avenue will be moved by the company as soon as the construction force can be secured.

ALMOST FATAL.

Albert Shenkle Recovering From a Wound In His Head.

Albert Shenkle, who was mysteriously injured Memorial day, is lying at his home suffering great pain. It has been found that a vein in his head had been injured, and the physicians say that if he would have been allowed to remain unattended much longer on Tuesday it would have caused his death. Wednesday night he was unable to sleep on account of the injury, but it is thought he is now out of danger.

CONGRESSMAN TAYLER

Interviewed In Columbus on His Choice For Speaker.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Hon. R. W. Tayler, of the Eighteenth district, in an interview said he favored either Henderson, of Iowa, or Sherman, of New York, for speaker. He did not believe it was a fight between the east and west for the speakership, but thought Ohio could name the speaker, if the delegation voted as a unit. On the governorship he was noncommittal, having a candidate from his own county. Hon. I. B. Cameron, for treasurer of state, and declined to say who he favored. It is but fair to believe that Mr. Tayler is for anybody the national administration wants.

Prominent Citizen Thinks the Police Matter Will Not End at the Trial.

It has been several days since there was anything new in the cases of Officers Whan and Grim and the matter seems to have died out, but it is only for the time being and there may be some new developments soon. A prominent citizen who is very intimate with one of the officers made the following statement to a reporter this morning: "Don't think this thing will end now. If the charges are not substantiated there may be trouble for somebody. Charges of this kind are serious and are hard to prove."

TEN DOLLAR SUIT SALE.

$12, $14, $15, $16 Suits for $10.

A semi-Annual Clearance of Broken Lots to Prevent Accumulation.

TO men who have a proper conception of a well regulated business, this terse explanation for cutting prices in the heart of a season will be appreciated. One hundred suits come in of a kind, 50 of another, 150 of another, and so the stock is bought. It is impossible to sell out to the last suit of any lot, because no matter how desirable the patterns may be, no matter how great the value, a man who wants a size 40 has no use for a size 36, and so on. And so these odds and ends, sold far below regular prices, are in truth a gathering of the best sellers, mostly fresh spring '99 makes, though some from previous seasons, worth up to $16, have been included.

A gathering of remnants and a sale to prevent accumulation—in other words we prefer to give our customers $12, $15 $16 suits now for $10 than to carry them over and perhaps sell for less. The first loss to us is the wisest in more ways than one.

Hospital Association Held an Interesting Session.

DEFINITE STEPS WERE TAKEN

Toward Providing the City With a Hospital—The Site Committee Instructed to Secure Prices on Suitable Ground. Election of Officers Postponed.

The Hospital association has at last taken action that may provide the city with a much needed hospital.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the association held yesterday afternoon at the Young Men's Christian association rooms and there was no end of enthusiasm. The question was thoroughly discussed and it was finally decided to purchase land upon which to build a hospital and the matter was left in the hands of the site committee, consisting of Mrs. R. B. Stevenson, Mrs. Emma Palmer and Mrs. George Grosshans with instructions to report at a meeting to be held in the First M. E. church Monday evening, June 12.

Just as soon as the ladies decide upon a location and purchase the land they will begin a systematic canvass for donations and they expect to meet with success in their efforts. Just what plan will be adopted to secure donations has not yet been decided, but every available means will be discussed before any action is taken.

The election of officers was laid over for two weeks for good and sufficient reasons.

RIGHT IN THE CITY

And You Cannot Make a Mistake in Purchasing.

You will do well, readers of the News Review, to note very carefully the subject matter of this article, as there is a good investment for you right at hand; an investment such as has not been offered you in this section at any time in the past. It recommends itself, as you will acknowledge when you investigate matters, note the location and sum up the improvements which will surely be made. Read carefully and then pass judgment.

The East Liverpool Land company will place on the market a number of lots situated on Thompson hill, not over four minutes' walk from the center of the city. These lots will have an advantage over many that have been sold recently, in that they will be improved—that is, streets and sidewalks paved, sewers, gas and water provided for and grade established. It can easily be seen the advantages that these lots have. No street car fare to contend with, amounting to a large saving in the course of a year. The grade being established there will be no danger in being left a hundred feet above the street or of having the top story where the cellar should be.

In fact, these lots contain all the advantages and none of the disadvantages of many lots recently sold at the same price. A warranty deed given to each purchaser, and the price will be about the same as many unimproved lots now on the market.

THEY WILL BUY LAND

Hospital Association Held an Interesting Session.

DEFINITE STEPS WERE TAKEN

The Hospital association has at last taken action that may provide the city with a much needed hospital.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the association held yesterday afternoon at the Young Men's Christian association rooms and there was no end of enthusiasm. The question was thoroughly discussed and it was finally decided to purchase land upon which to build a hospital and the matter was left in the hands of the site committee, consisting of Mrs. R. B. Stevenson, Mrs. Emma Palmer and Mrs. George Grosshans with instructions to report at a meeting to be held in the First M. E. church Monday evening, June 12.

Just as soon as the ladies decide upon a location and purchase the land they will begin a systematic canvass for donations and they expect to meet with success in their efforts. Just what plan will be adopted to secure donations has not yet been decided, but every available means will be discussed before any action is taken.

The election of officers was laid over for two weeks for good and sufficient reasons.

RIGHT IN THE CITY

And You Cannot Make a Mistake in Purchasing.

You will do well, readers of the News Review, to note very carefully the subject matter of this article, as there is a good investment for you right at hand; an investment such as has not been offered you in this section at any time in the past. It recommends itself, as you will acknowledge when you investigate matters, note the location and sum up the improvements which will surely be made. Read carefully and then pass judgment.

The East Liverpool Land company will place on the market a number of lots situated on Thompson hill, not over four minutes' walk from the center of the city. These lots will have an advantage over many that have been sold recently, in that they will be improved—that is, streets and sidewalks paved, sewers, gas and water provided for and grade established. It can easily be seen the advantages that these lots have. No street car fare to contend with, amounting to a large saving in the course of a year. The grade being established there will be no danger in being left a hundred feet above the street or of having the top story where the cellar should be.

In fact, these lots contain all the advantages and none of the disadvantages of many lots recently sold at the same price. A warranty deed given to each purchaser, and the price will be about the same as many unimproved lots now on the market.

The Circus Is Here.

The small boy of the city is in his glory today, for the reason that John H. Sparks' circus arrived in the city this morning and pitched their tents upon Brunt's hill.

The show has been south all winter and has been on the road continuously for four years. The great lion act is a feature of the show which gives general satisfaction in every department.

Salem Scholars.

SALEM, June 2.—The school enumeration for Salem is as follows: Number of males, 1020; females, 1009; total, 2029. Number between 6 and 8 years, 356; between 8 and 14 years, 846; between 14 and 16 years, 260; between 16 and 21 years, 567; total, 2029, showing a net gain.

SOUTH SIDE.

CHESTER HAS A COP.

Those Who Break the Law on the Virginia Side Will Be Severely Dealt With.

Yesterday Robert Marshall, of Chester, was appointed marshal by the citizens of that district, at a salary of $35 per month. He went on duty yesterday afternoon, but no arrests have been made by the new officer yet. Enough money to pay his wages for a year has been subscribed, and if he is successful in his work he will be reappointed at the end of his present term. Should any offenders be gathered in they will be taken before Justice Newell and heard at once. If they are found guilty and have no money to pay their fines a trip to Cumberland will result. As the citizens of the other side protest against working on the extension of the railroad on Sunday, Contractor McNally will be notified to stop work tomorrow night and do no more until Monday.

Change of Residence.

Mr. Clendenning, who has resided in Brick Block for some time, will move to the Shrader building, near the county road bridge, next week. The rooms made vacant by Mr. Clendenning will be occupied by Walter McDonald, of Hookstown.

More Brick.

This morning another barge of brick was landed on the Virginia side opposite Babb's island to be used in the construction of the new mill. As soon as a place can be chosen to store the brick the barges will be unloaded.

Divine Services.

Last evening divine services were held in the school house and United Presbyterian chapel. Miss Crill had charge of the meeting in the school house while Reverend Gillis preached at the latter place.

Bought a Barn.

John Martin yesterday purchased a barn owned by Henry Riley. The barn had to be moved from the Riley farm on account of the extension of the railroad, and it will be placed on the Martin farm next week.

Start Monday.

Monday John Shrader will commence the erection of a brick dwelling on the ground occupied by one of his frame residences. The latter building will be moved to another location tomorrow.

Home Again.

Justice Newell, who has been spending some time in California, is expected home tomorrow evening. The last word received from him was from Indianapolis.

HARMONY ALL AROUND.

The opening day of the Columbus convention showed that the declaration that the delegates would be unanimous for the endorsement of President McKinley and the administration was well founded. Significant speeches favoring harmony in the party were delivered by all the leaders, and Temporary Chairman Kerr's address was on the same line.

ALL APPROVE IT.

The voting machine is coming. In the state of New York it has already come. Rochester owns 73 and likes them so well that no one would think of going back to the old system. Utica owns 28 and the feeling there is the same as in Rochester. Albany has ordered 60, and Buffalo has just placed an order for 110 machines. These adjuncts to a quick, secret and honest ballot will soon be indispensable.

THE COLOR QUESTION.

If Hasskarl would come to East Liverpool, form the close and intimate acquaintance of Reverend Carson, pastor of the African M. E. church, study the said pastor's life and character, note his address and intelligence, judge him from the standpoints of brain power and intellectuality, and then render a verdict in accord with the facts discovered, Hasskarl would be forced to acknowledge that the "missing link" is far to be preferred to the completed man, Carson representing the "link" and Hasskarl the "completion."

COLUMBIANA'S CANDIDATE.

Columbiana county is deeply interested in I. B. Cameron's success as a candidate before the Republican state convention for the nomination for state treasurer on account of his splendid capabilities and fitness for the position. His record in this county as treasurer and later as receiver for the bank at Lisbon has exemplified the fact that he is fitted for any position like to that to which he is aspiring in the state. Columbiana county would be honored in his selection for state treasurer, while the state cannot do a better thing than place him in the position.

HARMONY ALL AROUND.

The opening day of the Columbus convention showed that the declaration that the delegates would be unanimous for the endorsement of President McKinley and the administration was well founded. Significant speeches favoring harmony in the party were delivered by all the leaders, and Temporary Chairman Kerr's address was on the same line.

ALL APPROVE IT.

The voting machine is coming. In the state of New York it has already come. Rochester owns 73 and likes them so well that no one would think of going back to the old system. Utica owns 28 and the feeling there is the same as in Rochester. Albany has ordered 60, and Buffalo has just placed an order for 110 machines. These adjuncts to a quick, secret and honest ballot will soon be indispensable.

THE COLOR QUESTION.

If Hasekari would come to East Liverpool, form the close and intimate acquaintance of Reverend Carson, pastor of the African M. E. church, study the said pastor's life and character, note his address and intelligence, judge him from the standpoints of brain power and intellectuality, and then render a verdict in accord with the facts discovered, Hasekari would be forced to acknowledge that the "missing link" is far to be preferred to the completed man, Carson representing the "link" and Hasekari the "completion."

COLUMBIANA'S CANDIDATE.

Columbiana county is deeply interested in I. B. Cameron's success as a candidate before the Republican state convention for the nomination for state treasurer on account of his splendid capabilities and fitness for the position. His record in this county as treasurer and later as receiver for the bank at Lisbon has exemplified the fact that he is fitted for any position like to that to which he is aspiring in the state. Columbiana county would be honored in his selection for state treasurer, while the state cannot do a better thing than place him in the position.

NASH THE MAN

Nominated on Second Ballot
This Afternoon.

CAMERON WINS ON FIRST

With the Others Away Behind--When Hamilton County Swung Over to Nash the Cuyhoga Delegation Moved to Make It Unanimous--Great Enthusiasm Greeted the Result.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—[Special]—Nothing could be heard here this morning but the vociferous claims of the rooters for the various candidates. The Daugherty people made the biggest noise and the Nash crowd speedily trumped the claim by starting a report that it was now the field against Daugherty. This promptly rallied the field against the Daugherty boomers, the disposition all along being for the field to unite in opposition to whoever seemed to have the lead. The strategy of the Nash people served its purpose and by the time the convention opened the Daugherty boom that had jumped to first place in the night was back in the ranks, and the situation was the same as it had been when the first session of the convention closed yesterday.

The Jones shouters have been playing the compromise candidate racket for all it is worth and this morning many shrewd politicians said they wouldn't be surprised if the Youngstown man by the aid of the anti-Hannaites secured the nomination.

Meanwhile the friends of I. B. Cameron, of Columbiana county, are fighting shy of entangling alliances and watching out for his chances for the state treasurership which they say is now a cinch. He stands well with all the gubernatorial candidates and is wisely making his own fight without any complicating deals with any of them.

When the convention opened today the temporary organization, with W. S. Kerr as chairman, was made permanent.

The committee on resolutions sent in a ringing declaration of principles. It takes a decided stand against trusts and endorses President McKinley's administration as well as Governor Bushnell's. Senators Hanna and Foraker are also praised.

The first ballot for governor gave Nash 289 votes, Daugherty, 211; Jones, 76; Nevins, 82; Hull, 39; Durban, 46; Douglas, 60; Orr, 17.

On the second ballot Hamilton county went over solid to Nash, nominating him amid a scene of wild enthusiasm. Cuyahoga county moved to make it unanimous, which was done.

The vote for treasurer nominated Cameron on first ballot: Cameron, 470; Latham, 192; Campbell, 111; Referberick, 95.

TWO MEN FROM CHICAGO

Are Here Trying to Form a Pottery Combination

TO KEEP UP THE MARKET PRICES

An Officer of a Local Pottery In an Interview on the Subject Says the Plan Is a Very Fair One--Not a Trust as Dos Passos Was--Visitors Say Future Will Talk.

J. H. Frambach and C. F. Price, of Chicago, are in the city for the purpose of forming a combination among the various potteries to maintain higher prices. The gentlemen are representatives of Charles Berg & Co., bankers and brokers, with offices at 107 Dearborn street.

Yesterday they visited several potteries in company with F. W. Fowler, of the American China works, of Toronto, and to the owners of each plant the gentlemen presented their proposition. This morning a reporter called at the office of a pottery where the gentlemen had visited, and an officer of the company said:

"These men came to the city to form a combination, and not a trust, as is generally supposed. They have a different plan to that which was pursued by John R. Dos Passos, of the American Pottery's company. Whether it will be a success, I am unable to say, other than that the proposition is an extremely fair one."

This morning Messrs. Frambach and Price expected a third party to arrive from Chicago, but up to noon he had not come. Mr. Fowler, when approached on the matter, refused to talk, saying that the future would speak for itself.

Recently the manufacturers of this city received a letter from Berg & Co., stating they had presented a plan to Chicago capitalists relative to forming what in a sense may be a trust among the potteries. This plan met their approval, and if the manufacturers act quickly the trust or combination could be formed within 60 days.

This morning Chief Johnson and ex-Officer Grim took Edwin Hancock, Charles Amos, Dunk Pickering, Jabez Hodgkinson and Charles Hutton to Lisbon, where they will be held to appear before the grand jury. To obtain the release of the boys it will require bonds amounting to $6,500.

TAX LEVY INCREASED

It Will Be Eleven and a Half Mills This Year.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Held a Special Session and Decided How Much Money They Would Need For Expenses Next Year—$3,600 Was Borrowed to Meet Current Expenses.

The board of education held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of fixing the tax levy.

Members Hill, Vodrey, Taggart, Murphy and Norris were present and after the session had been opened in the usual manner the members settled down to figuring how much money would be needed to run the schools next year. The present tax levy is 11 mills and after several members had figured for some time it was decided that it would be necessary to increase the levy one mill, making it 12 mills. At this juncture Doctor Norris called the attention of the board to the fact that they received about $7,000 from the state, which had not been taken into consideration. This caused the members to do some more figuring and it was finally decided to place the tax levy at 11½ mills, an increase of one-half mill. This will give the board about $38,000 a year, and with the $7,000 received from the state added makes a total of $45,000, and it is thought the amount will cover the expenses for next year.

The board then decided to borrow $3,600, divided equally among the banks. The notes will be given for 30 days, and will be paid off when the advancement of the June taxes arrives.

An Officer of a Local Pottery In an Interview on the Subject Says the Plan Is a Very Fair One--Not a Trust as Dos Passos Was--Visitors Say Future Will Talk.

J. H. Frambach and C. F. Price, of Chicago, are in the city for the purpose of forming a combination among the various potteries to maintain higher prices. The gentlemen are representatives of Charles Berg & Co., bankers and brokers, with offices at 107 Dearborn street.

Yesterday they visited several potteries in company with F. W. Fowler, of the American China works, of Toronto, and to the owners of each plant the gentlemen presented their proposition. This morning a reporter called at the office of a pottery where the gentlemen had visited, and an officer of the company said:

"These men came to the city to form a combination, and not a trust, as is generally supposed. They have a different plan to that which was pursued by John R. Dos Passos, of the American Potteries' company. Whether it will be a success, I am unable to say, other than that the proposition is an extremely fair one."

This morning Messrs. Frambach and Price expected a third party to arrive from Chicago, but up to noon he had not come. Mr. Fowler, when approached on the matter, refused to talk, saying that the future would speak for itself.

Recently the manufacturers of this city received a letter from Berg & Co., stating they had presented a plan to Chicago capitalists relative to forming what in a sense may be a trust among the potteries. This plan met their approval, and if the manufacturers act quickly the trust or combination could be formed within 60 days.

TAX LEVY INCREASED

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Held a Special Session and Decided How Much Money They Would Need For Expenses Next Year—$3,600 Was Borrowed to Meet Current Expenses.

The board of education held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of fixing the tax levy.

Members Hill, Vodrey, Taggart, Murphy and Norris were present and after the session had been opened in the usual manner the members settled down to figuring how much money would be needed to run the schools next year. The present tax levy is 11 mills and after several members had figured for some time it was decided that it would be necessary to increase the levy one mill, making it 12 mills. At this juncture Doctor Norris called the attention of the board to the fact that they received about $7,000 from the state, which had not been taken into consideration. This caused the members to do some more figuring and it was finally decided to place the tax levy at 11½ mills, an increase of one-half mill. This will give the board about $38,000 a year, and with the $7,000 received from the state added makes a total of $45,000, and it is thought the amount will cover the expenses for next year.

The board then decided to borrow $3,600, divided equally among the banks. The notes will be given for 30 days, and will be paid off when the advancement of the June taxes arrives.

NASH THE MAN

Nominated on Second Ballot
This Afternoon.

CAMERON WINS ON FIRST

With the Others Away Behind--When Hamilton County Swung Over to Nash the Cuyhoga Delegation Moved to Make It Unanimous--Great Enthusiasm Greeted the Result.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—[Special]—Nothing could be heard here this morning but the vociferous claims of the rooters for the various candidates. The Daugherty people made the biggest noise and the Nash crowd speedily trumped the claim by starting a report that it was now the field against Daugherty. This promptly rallied the field against the Daugherty boomers, the disposition all along being for the field to unite in opposition to whoever seemed to have the lead. The strategy of the Nash people served its purpose and by the time the convention opened the Daugherty boom that had jumped to first place in the night was back in the ranks, and the situation was the same as it had been when the first session of the convention closed yesterday.

The Jones shouters have been playing the compromise candidate racket for all it is worth and this morning many shrewd politicians said they wouldn't be surprised if the Youngstown man by the aid of the anti-Hannaites secured the nomination.

Meanwhile the friends of I. B. Cameron, of Columbiana county, are fighting shy of entangling alliances and watching out for his chances for the state treasurership which they say is now a cinch. He stands well with all the gubernatorial candidates and is wisely making his own fight without any complicating deals with any of them.

When the convention opened today the temporary organization, with W. S. Kerr as chairman, was made permanent.

The committee on resolutions sent in a ringing declaration of principles. It takes a decided stand against trusts and endorses President McKinley's administration as well as Governor Bushnell's. Senators Hanna and Foraker are also praised.

The first ballot for governor gave Nash 289 votes, Daugherty, 211; Jones, 76; Nevins, 82; Hull, 39; Durban, 46; Douglas, 60; Orr, 17.

On the second ballot Hamilton county went over solid to Nash, nominating him amid a scene of wild enthusiasm. Cuyahoga county moved to make it unanimous, which was done.

The vote for treasurer nominated Cameron on first ballot: Cameron, 470; Latham, 192; Campbell, 111; Referberick, 95.

FINLEY'S PLAN PASSED

Bimetallists to Organize Aggressively in All States.

A COMMITTEE WAS NAMED.

Appointed to Co-Operate With the National Democratic Committee—Altgeld A Member—Speakers Declared For Bryan—Farren Again Chosen President.

LOUISVILLE, June 2.—A resolution, introduced by General E. B. Finley of Ohio, was adopted by the convention of Ohio Valley Bimetallic clubs, providing that the president appoint a committee to co-operate with the Democratic national committee, to thoroughly organize in every state and territory for 1900.

Judge Tarvin announced: John P. Altgeld, Illinois; George Fred Williams, Massachusetts; J. W. Overmeyer, Indiana; J. Somonin, Kentucky; Allen W. Clarke Indiana, and James P. Tarvin of Kentucky.

P. Wat Hardin of Kentucky spoke and gave it as his opinion that bimetalism is the true issue that is confronting the Democracy of the United States and the one upon which, with W. J. Bryan at the head, the party will march to triumphant victory in 1900. Similar sentiments were expressed by Hon. William Goebel and William J. Stine, both of Kentucky.

Chairman Tarvin named committees on officers for ensuing term and on resolutions, after which the convention adjourned temporarily.

When President Tarvin again called the convention to order Hon. Henry Warrum of Indiana spoke.

The committee on constitution recommended an amendment to the constitution for the election of two vice presidents from each of the four states and that the officers and executive committee elected by this convention serve until the close of 1901. It was adopted.

The committee on a place for meeting for 1900 recommended that a committee consisting of the officers of the league, with D. S. Oliver of Ohio, S. M. Biddeon of Illinois and Joseph Rhines of Kentucky, select a place and time and issue a call for the 1900 meeting. The report was adopted.

The committee on officers for the ensuing year made the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

President, James P. Tarvin, Kentucky; vice presidents, F. J. VanVoorhis of Indiana, D. S. Oliver of Ohio, S. M. Biddeon of Illinois, W. J. Semonin of Kentucky, John B. Altgeld of Illinois, John Overmeyer of Indiana, Louis Stantz of Ohio and Thomas Tandy of Kentucky; secretary, Allen W. Clarke, Indiana; treasurer, Adam Heimburger, Indiana.

The executive committee shall consist of all the above named officers together with the following named members: F. J. Deller, G. E. Downey, Indiana; J. W. Orr, Naber Gottlieb, Illinois; C. V. Hull, H. C. Cordrey, Ohio; J. L. Rhunock, Kentucky.

President Tarvin introduced Hon. E. B. Finley of Ohio, who spoke, especially condemning the president's policy in the Philippines.

The resolutions declared for the Chicago platform, that bimetalism would largely destroy the trusts, and for Bryan as the party nominee.

AN OUTPOST ATTACKED.

Rebels Wounded Two Americans Near San Fernando—Rearrangement of Commands—Messages From Otis.

LONDON, June 2.—A special dispatch from Manila says that the insurgents attacked the outposts of the Fifty-first Iowa Regiment at San Fernando, and that two Americans were hit.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The war department received the following dispatch from General Otis at Manila, dated June 1:

General Smith reports from Negros that he has punished insurgents who murdered Captain Tilley; that the eastern coast of the island now is under the American flag and its inhabitants ask protection against robber bands. The bands were pursued into the mountains by United States and native troops and severely punished.

Replying to inquiries of Secretary Alger, General Otis telegraphed "that he is still of the opinion that 30,000 troops will be necessary for the effective control of the Philippines."

Secretary Alger took General Otis' cable to the president and after conference with him stated that the text of the dispatch would not be made public, as it contained other matters besides an answer to his inquiry of the other day.

"It reaffirms General Otis' estimate made some time ago," said the secretary, "that 30,000 men would be sufficient to cope with the situation. As I stated yesterday, the regulars now on the way or under orders to go to the Philippines will give General Otis about 24,000 or 25,000 men after the withdrawal of the volunteers."

"Where will the additional 5,000 or 6,000 men for whom General Otis asks come from?" the secretary was asked.

"That has not been definitely determined as yet," he replied. "We may be able to take the additional troops asked for from the regulars now located in this country, Cuba and Porto Rico, or it may be found advisable to muster in volunteers."

"In case it is decided to call for volunteers, will the call only be for the 5,000 or 6,000 men necessary to bring General Otis' total up to 30,000?"

"If volunteers are called for," replied the secretary, "the call probably will be for 10,000 men."

MANILA, June 2.—General Lawton was given command of the defenses of the city and troops forming the line around Manila, which will be his division.

General MacArthur commands the outlying garrisons and the troops holding the railroad and river.

Bimetallists to Organize Aggressively in All States.

A COMMITTEE WAS NAMED.

Appointed to Co-Operate With the National Democratic Committee—Altgeld A Member—Speakers Declared For Bryan—Farren Again Chosen President.

LOUISVILLE, June 2.—A resolution, introduced by General E. B. Finley of Ohio, was adopted by the convention of Ohio Valley Bimetallic clubs, providing that the president appoint a committee to co-operate with the Democratic national committee, to thoroughly organize in every state and territory for 1900.

Judge Tarvin announced: John P. Altgeld, Illinois; George Fred Williams, Massachusetts; J. W. Overmeyer, Indiana; J. Somonin, Kentucky; Allen W. Clarke, Indiana; and James P. Tarvin of Kentucky.

P. Wat Hardin of Kentucky spoke and gave it as his opinion that bimetalism is the true issue that is confronting the Democracy of the United States and the one upon which, with W. J. Bryan at the head, the party will march to triumphant victory in 1900. Similar sentiments were expressed by Hon. William Goebel and William J. Stine, both of Kentucky.

Chairman Tarvin named committees on officers for ensuing term and on resolutions, after which the convention adjourned temporarily.

When President Tarvin again called the convention to order Hon. Henry Warrum of Indiana spoke.

The committee on constitution recommended an amendment to the constitution for the election of two vice presidents from each of the four states and that the officers and executive committees elected by this convention serve until the close of 1901. It was adopted.

The committee on a place for meeting for 1900 recommended that a committee consisting of the officers of the league, with D. S. Oliver of Ohio, S. M. Biddison of Illinois and Joseph Rhines of Kentucky, select a place and time and issue a call for the 1900 meeting. The report was adopted.

The committee on officers for the ensuing year made the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

President, James P. Tarvin, Kentucky; vice presidents, F. J. VanVoorhis of Indiana, D. S. Oliver of Ohio, S. M. Biddison of Illinois, W. J. Somonin of Kentucky, John B. Altgeld of Illinois, John Overmeyer of Indiana, Louis Stantz of Ohio and Thomas Tandy of Kentucky; secretary, Allen W. Clarke, Indiana; treasurer, Adam Heimburger, Indiana.

The executive committee shall consist of all the above named officers together with the following named members: F. J. Deller, G. E. Downey, Indiana; J. W. Orr, Naber Gottlieb, Illinois; C. V. Hull, H. C. Cordery, Ohio; J. L. Rhinock, Kentucky.

President Tarvin introduced Hon. E. B. Finley of Ohio, who spoke, especially condemning the president's policy in the Philippines.

The resolutions declared for the Chicago platform, that bimetalism would largely destroy the trusts, and for Bryan as the party nominee.

AN OUTPOST ATTACKED.

Rebels Wounded Two Americans Near San Fernando—Rearrangement of Commands—Messages From Otis.

LONDON, June 2.—A special dispatch from Manila says that the insurgents attacked the outposts of the Fifty-first Iowa Regiment at San Fernando, and that two Americans were hit.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The war department received the following dispatch from General Otis at Manila, dated June 1:

General Smith reports from Negros that he has punished insurgents who murdered Captain Tilley; that the eastern coast of the island now is under the American flag and its inhabitants ask protection against robber bands. The bands were pursued into the mountains by United States and native troops and severely punished.

Replying to inquiries of Secretary Alger, General Otis telegraphed "that he is still of the opinion that 30,000 troops will be necessary for the effective control of the Philippines."

Secretary Alger took General Otis' cable to the president and after conference with him stated that the text of the dispatch would not be made public, as it contained other matters besides an answer to his inquiry of the other day.

"It reaffirms General Otis' estimate made some time ago," said the secretary, "that 30,000 men would be sufficient to cope with the situation. As I stated yesterday, the regulars now on the way or under orders to go to the Philippines will give General Otis about 24,000 or 25,000 men after the withdrawal of the volunteers."

"Where will the additional 5,000 or 6,000 men for whom General Otis asks come from?" the secretary was asked.

"That has not been definitely determined as yet," he replied. "We may be able to take the additional troops asked for from the regulars now located in this country, Cuba and Porto Rico, or it may be found advisable to muster in volunteers."

"In case it is decided to call for volunteers, will the call only be for the 5,000 or 6,000 men necessary to bring General Otis' total up to 30,000?"

"Our volunteers are called for," replied the secretary, "the call probably will be for 10,000 men."

MANILA, June 2.—General Lawton was given command of the defenses of the city and troops forming the line around Manila, which will be his division.

General MacArthur commands the outlying garrisons and the troops holding the railroad and river.

CHINESE PLAY BALL.

Novel Exhibition of the National Game at a Brooklyn Park.

There were nine stiff jointed Chinamen in New York the other morning. They tried to play a game of baseball with the "Colored New Yorks" at Washington park, Brooklyn, the other afternoon in the presence of about 1,200 spectators. Many Chinatown, Bowery and east side celebrities occupied seats in the grand stand, including "Chuck" Connors. When the struggle was half over and the Mongolians were hopelessly in the rear "Chuck" arose from his chair, yawned, and growled:

"Aw, forget it!"

While the Chinese experts showed that they had learned the principles of the national pastime, they demonstrated a total inability to get in the way of grounders and to make proper throws. If an accurate score could have been kept, probably a hundred errors would have been charged against them. A soft ball was used and the pitcher of the colored nine tossed in old fashioned "dewdrops," which were met with some degree of skill but no force.

The Chinese pitcher, Lang Wang, had great difficulty in getting the ball up to the batsmen. He employed an "old maid" delivery and fell all over himself whenever the ball was returned to him by the catcher, whose name on the score card was Chin On, but who was in reality a local player of considerable ability. He looked like a Chinaman at a distance, but when Umpire Butler called him out upon one occasion he appeared in his true colors with the retort:

"Ah, dig der dust out o' yer blinks and don't do us dirt. See!"

In the third inning the colored men rolled up 13 runs. Ha Ling, Wung Wan and Chin Hong, the outfielders, chased the ball until their eyes were bulging and their tongues were hanging out. After the seventh inning the colored men hurried the game to a finish. A Chinese band made a noise before the game and then sat silently on the bench. Both teams wore regulation uniforms. "The score was 33 to 11 in favor of the other fellows," said the manager of the "Chinks" to his men. The score by innings follows:

Colored New Yorks... 0 3 13 4 3 1 7 2 *—33
Chinese Giants... 2 0 2 3 0 1 2 0 1—11

Fair haired people are said to be becoming less numerous than formerly. The ancient Jews were a fair haired race; now they are, with few exceptions, dark. So it is, in a lesser degree, with the Irish, among whom 150 years ago a dark haired person was almost unknown.

The average life of a theater is 23 years. From 1861 to 1867, inclusive, 187 theaters were burned down, and 13 every year since has been about the average.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. TOLD OF ROSA BONHEUR

Interesting Anecdotes of the Famous Animal Painter.

TRUE HISTORY OF THE HORSE FAIR

How the Noted Picture Came to New York and Was Presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art—Amusing Incidents in the Artist's Life. Her Love For Animals.

Many interesting anecdotes are told about the late Rosa Bonheur, famous painter of animals, and her pictures. The true history of Rosa Bonheur's "The Horse Fair," No. 189 of the gallery of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York, may be found in the catalogue. In a letter written to Mr. S. P. Avery by Mr. Ernest Gambart the latter explains precisely how "The Horse Fair" came to New York.

"It was painted in 1852 by Rosa Bonheur, then in her thirtieth year, and exhibited in the next Salon. Though much admired, it did not find a purchaser. It was soon after exhibited at Ghent, meeting again with much appreciation, but was not sold, as art did not flourish at the time. In 1855 the picture was sent by Mlle. Rosa Bonheur to her native town of Bordeaux and exhibited there. She offered to sell it to the town at the very low price of 12,000 francs ($2,400). While there I asked her if she would sell it to me and allow me to take it to England and have it engraved. She said: 'I wish my picture to remain in France. I will once more impress on my countrymen my wish to sell it to them for 12,000 francs. If they refuse, you can have it, but if you take it abroad you must pay me 40,000 francs.' The town failing to make the purchase, I at once accepted these terms, and Rosa Bonheur then placed the picture at my disposal. I tendered her the 40,000 francs, and she said: 'I am much gratified at your giving me such a noble price, but I do not like to feel that I have taken advantage of your liberality. Let us see how we can combine in the matter. You will not be able to have an engraving made from so large a canvas. Suppose I paint you a small one of the same subject, of which I will make you a present.' Of course I accepted the gift, and thus it happened that the large work went traveling over the kingdom on exhibition, while Thomas Landseer was making an engraving from the quarter size replica.

"After some time, in 1857, I think, I sold the original picture to Mr. William P. Wright, New York (whose picture gallery and residence were at Weehawken, N. J.), for the sum of 30,000 francs, but as he claimed a share of the profits of its exhibition in New York and other cities he really paid me only 22,000 francs for it. I offered to repurchase the picture in 1870 for 50,000 francs, but ultimately I understood that Mr. Stewart paid a much larger price for it on the dispersion of Mr. Wright's gallery. The quarter size replica, from which the engraving was made, I finally sold to Mr. Jacob Bell, who bequeathed it in 1859 to the nation, and it is now in the National gallery in London. A second still smaller replica was painted a few years later and was resold some time ago in London for £4,000 ($20,000). There is also a smaller water color drawing, which was sold to Mr. Bolckow for 2,500 guineas ($12,000), and is now an heirloom belonging to the town of Middleborough. That is the whole history of this grand work. The Stewart canvas is the real and true original and only large size 'Horse Fair.' Once in Mr. Stewart's possession, it never left his gallery until the auction sale of his collection, March 25, 1887, when it was purchased by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt for the sum of $53,500 and presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art."

Miss Bonheur was very absentminded. She wore a shabby costume when painting and a pair of dilapidated slippers. More than once she went out without thinking of the negligence of this dress and discovered it when too late to make a change. There was a first performance one night at the Theatre Francais in Paris of a piece written by an author friend of hers which she wished to hear. She was staying in town then, doing some work in a friend's studio. The servant rushed in to say that the carriage was at the door and the rest of the party waiting. Throwing down her palette and brushes and picking up her hat, she ran down stairs, got into the carriage, and, when they reached the theater, Rosa was placed next to a very stylish clubman, who, at the first entrance, complained to the usher that she had placed a woman next to him whose dress was stained with oil. "It is outrageous," said he indignantly. "Ask her to take another seat." The usher answered that he had no right to put people out who had paid for their places, but the gentleman made such a row that finally the head usher came up to know what it was all about.

"I am complaining of the woman who has the seat next to me. Go and see for yourself the way she is attired."

The head usher took one look at the dress circle; then, turning to the angry person, said:

"Your name, sir, if you please?"

"What do you want with my name?"

"That I may request Mlle. Rosa Bonheur, in your name, to leave her seat."

"You are joking with me."

"Not at all, sir. The lady in the dress stained with oil is the famous artist. Her costume, it is true, is in striking contrast with yours. Shall I ask her, in your name, to take another seat?"

The following story was told by Miss Bonheur to an interviewer concerning an amusing incident in her life. She said:

"Once when I was returning from the country in the male attire which I always wore on my travels I suddenly heard that one of my friends was ill, and, without finding time to change my costume, I hurried to the sickroom. As I was seated on the bed of the patient, holding her hand to ascertain if there was any fever, the doctor came in and, seeing me, a young man, in such a familiar position, hastily closed the door and discreetly retired. Then my friend reminded me that I was in male attire and that the physician may have been led to believe what was far from the truth. I immediately ran after the doctor, luckily caught him on the stairs and left him greatly surprised to hear that the young man he had just left tete-a-tete with his patient was me, Rosa Bonheur."

Her love for the animals she painted is illustrated by this story: A vicious lion had to be removed to Paris, and some months later, being in that city, she went one day to see her former pet. There was a great crowd around the cage. He was dying of disease and neglect. She called out to him: "Oh, my poor Nero! What have they done to you?" And he heard her and lifted up his poor head and saw her and crawled to the bars and lay down close beside them so she could touch him. She said it was only a common crowd there—ragamuffins and rough men and women—but there was not a dry eye there, and they all took off their hats to her as they recognized her.

Two days later the lion was dead. And when she ended her story her own bright eyes were dim, and I think ours were too. She waved her little hands and said: "You see, my friends, I am a real savage. I know no one, not even my fellow artists. I live with my peasants and my animals, and I think with my beloved La Fontaine that the company of beasts is often far preferable to that of men."

MAX PRACHT AND HIS TOADS

Result of an Advertisement Offering to Buy Ten Horned Toads.

Special Agent Max Pracht of the federal building in Santa Fe the other day inserted an advertisement in The New Mexican, offering to buy ten horned toads. When he arrived at his office in the morning, he found an army of people lined up in the corridor, like the rush at Durango when the Ute lands were opened. The first ones in line seemed to have been there all night. Every grade of citizenship and servitude was represented. They had brought horned toads of all kinds, color, class and condition. Some were as small as a bedbug and others as large as a mud turtle. They were housed in cigar boxes, old hat boxes, handkerchiefs, shawls and satchels.

All day long young and old, large and tall, clean and dirty people called, offering horned toads for sale, until every one in the Federal building had a creepy, crawly, clammy feeling, and Mr. Pracht had selected the finest specimens that ever found their way to a zoological garden. He is convinced by this time that there are more horned toads in and around Santa Fe than anything else. The rush became so great in the afternoon that the sign "No More Horned Toads Wanted" was put out. But still they came, and Mr. Pracht was compelled to seize his hat and coat and flee into the jungle not far from the Federal building.—Santa Fe Mexican.

Cervera Remembers Friends.

Arthur C. Humphreys of Norfolk, Va., has received from Admiral Cervera and Captain Concas of the Spanish navy likenesses of themselves, sent to him as a token of regard. Each came in a pretty gilt frame made in Spain. The picture of Admiral Cervera was sent from his home in Madrid and that of Captain Concas came from his home in Barcelona. Dr. Humphreys also has received a handsome Spanish admiral's flag, made by the wife and daughter of Captain Concas and sent to him by that officer.—New York Press.

Impudence.

"I have just learned," she said, with a perceptible tinge of asperity, "that I am the ninth girl to whom you have been engaged."

"Well," he suavely replied, "that ought to make you glad."

"Glad!" she exclaimed. "I'd like to know why?"

"Don't you know," he answered, "that there's luck in odd numbers?"

A SUBDUER OF INDIANS.

Dr. Mary McKee's Brave Work Among the Moquis.

STAMPING OUT SMALLPOX PLAGUE.

Woman Physician, Employed by the Government, Compels the Indians to Submit to Vaccination and Fumigation Against Their Will—Troops Sent to Enforce Her Orders.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, writing under date of May 23 about smallpox among the Moqui Indians, says: The smallpox is so bad among the Moqui Indians in Arizona and is spreading so fast that there is fear that the whole tribe may be exterminated. In order to stop the plague Miss Mary McKee, the agency physician, with the assistance of Mr. Shoemaker, the farmer employed by the government to teach the Indians the science of agriculture and the use of modern implements, undertook to vaccinate the entire tribe, fumigate their houses and burn the effects of those who have died or were suffering from the disease.

The Indians made a stubborn resistance. They are fatalists. Their religion teaches them that a sick person is under the ban of the evil spirit, who can only be driven away by incantations and the use of the magic arts. Therefore it is not only difficult, but almost impossible, to convince them that smallpox can be prevented by the use of simple and ordinary precautions. Miss McKee decided to take matters into her own hands, and she ordered up the entire tribe for vaccination. The agent of the Moqui Indians, a man named Hazlett, also has the Navajos under his charge and lives with the latter tribe. But he readily gave his permission for this brave woman doctor to use her own judgment in stamping out the plague.

The Indians did not take the vaccination seriously. They are accustomed to a good deal of self torture, and a little scraping of the skin and soreness of the arm was not a matter of much consequence to them, but when Miss McKee invaded their houses and drove them out and put in her pans of sulphur they made a decided remonstrance. Then when she seized the clothing, bedding, furniture and other things that had been in the rooms of smallpox victims the relatives who expected to inherit the property objected. But neither this nor anything else stopped her until she had thoroughly cleansed and fumigated two of the seven villages and vaccinated every one of their inhabitants.

By that time an account of her performances had reached the other pueblos, and when she and Mr. Shoemaker arrived at the third one morning to begin their work the head chief appeared and refused them entrance. Behind them were ranged the caciques, or priests, the medicine men and the warriors of the village, armed with guns, bows and arrows and other weapons. The chief explained that they were willing to give the government medicine to the sick whenever Miss McKee prescribed it, but they could not allow her to come into their houses and burn their furniture and beds and sting the arms of their women and children.

Miss McKee tried to explain the object of vaccination and the benefits to be derived from disinfecting, and she warned them that unless they permitted her to have her way the whole tribe would die of the plague. Her words had no effect. The inhabitants of this and the five other villages absolutely refused to allow her to enter them. But she was not to be daunted. She immediately sent for Mr. Hazlett to come over from the Navajos and persuaded him to telegraph to Washington for the assistance of troops. Secretary Hitchcock presented the matter to Secretary Alger, and the commanding officer at Fort Wingate was instructed to send a company of men immediately to Moqui to defend Miss McKee and enforce her orders. They should have arrived there by this time, and it is a pity that a Kipling could not go with them to describe the scene that is occurring about now, with a delicate little woman as the hero instead of the British officer, in the thrilling tale that he tells of the attempt to enforce vaccination among the natives of India. The government is going to stand by Miss McKee if it takes every soldier left in our territory, and the Moquis have got to be vaccinated.

It would have been a blessing if Miss McKee had undertaken this duty 25 or 30 years ago, for smallpox is almost always epidemic among the Pueblo Indians, and no attempt has ever been made before to vaccinate them or fumigate their houses. There are 26 other pueblos in Arizona and New Mexico which are also suffering more or less from smallpox, and Dr. McKee's example will doubtless be followed by the other agency physicians.

Dr. Mary H. McKee is a Pennsylvanian and was appointed physician at Keams Canyon, A. T., in January, 1891, with a salary of $1,000 a year. She is about 35 years of age, slight of stature and of delicate physique. She has, however, shown a great deal of courage, zeal and efficiency, and ranks high on the records of the Indian office.

TOLD OF ROSA BONHEUR

Interesting Anecdotes of the Famous Animal Painter.

TRUE HISTORY OF THE HORSE FAIR

How the Noted Picture Came to New York and Was Presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art—Amusing Incidents in the Artist's Life, Her Love For Animals.

Many interesting anecdotes are told about the late Rosa Bonheur, famous painter of animals, and her pictures. The true history of Rosa Bonheur's "The Horse Fair," No. 189 of the gallery of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York, may be found in the catalogue. In a letter written to Mr. S. P. Avery by Mr. Ernest Gambart the latter explains precisely how "The Horse Fair" came to New York.

"It was painted in 1852 by Rosa Bonheur, then in her thirtieth year, and exhibited in the next Salon. Though much admired, it did not find a purchaser. It was soon after exhibited at Ghent, meeting again with much appreciation, but was not sold, as art did not flourish at the time. In 1855 the picture was sent by Mlle. Rosa Bonheur to her native town of Bordeaux and exhibited there. She offered to sell it to the town at the very low price of 12,000 francs ($2,400). While there I asked her if she would sell it to me and allow me to take it to England and have it engraved. She said: 'I wish my picture to remain in France. I will once more impress on my countrymen my wish to sell it to them for 12,000 francs. If they refuse, you can have it, but if you take it abroad you must pay me 40,000 francs.' The town failing to make the purchase, I at once accepted these terms, and Rosa Bonheur then placed the picture at my disposal. I tendered her the 40,000 francs, and she said: 'I am much gratified at your giving me such a noble price, but I do not like to feel that I have taken advantage of your liberality. Let us see how we can combine in the matter. You will not be able to have an engraving made from so large a canvas. Suppose I paint you a small one of the same subject, of which I will make you a present.' Of course I accepted the gift, and thus it happened that the large work went traveling over the kingdom on exhibition, while Thomas Landseer was making an engraving from the quarter size replica.

"After some time, in 1857, I think, I sold the original picture to Mr. William P. Wright, New York (whose picture gallery and residence were at Weehawken, N. J.), for the sum of 30,000 francs, but as he claimed a share of the profits of its exhibition in New York and other cities he really paid me only 22,000 francs for it. I offered to repurchase the picture in 1870 for 50,000 francs, but ultimately I understood that Mr. Stewart paid a much larger price for it on the dispersion of Mr. Wright's gallery. The quarter size replica, from which the engraving was made, I finally sold to Mr. Jacob Bell, who bequeathed it in 1859 to the nation, and it is now in the National gallery in London. A second still smaller replica was painted a few years later and was resold some time ago in London for £4,000 ($20,000). There is also a smaller water color drawing, which was sold to Mr. Bolckow for 2,500 guineas ($12,000), and is now an heirloom belonging to the town of Middleborough. That is the whole history of this grand work. The Stewart canvas is the real and true original and only large size 'Horse Fair.' Once in Mr. Stewart's possession, it never left his gallery until the auction sale of his collection, March 25, 1887, when it was purchased by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt for the sum of $53,500 and presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art."

TOLD OF ROSA BONHEUR

Interesting Anecdotes of the Famous Animal Painter.

TRUE HISTORY OF THE HORSE FAIR

How the Noted Picture Came to New York and Was Presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art—Amusing Incidents in the Artist's Life. Her Love For Animals.

Many interesting anecdotes are told about the late Rosa Bonheur, famous painter of animals, and her pictures. The true history of Rosa Bonheur's "The Horse Fair," No. 189 of the gallery of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York, may be found in the catalogue. In a letter written to Mr. S. P. Avery by Mr. Ernest Gambart the latter explains precisely how "The Horse Fair" came to New York. "It was painted in 1852 by Rosa Bonheur, then in her thirtieth year, and exhibited in the next Salon. Though much admired, it did not find a purchaser. It was soon after exhibited at Ghent, meeting again with much appreciation, but was not sold, as art did not flourish at the time. In 1855 the picture was sent by Mlle. Rosa Bonheur to her native town of Bordeaux and exhibited there. She offered to sell it to the town at the very low price of 12,000 francs ($2,400). While there I asked her if she would sell it to me and allow me to take it to England and have it engraved. She said: 'I wish my picture to remain in France. I will once more impress on my countrymen my wish to sell it to them for 12,000 francs. If they refuse, you can have it, but if you take it abroad you must pay me 40,000 francs.' The town failing to make the purchase, I at once accepted these terms, and Rosa Bonheur then placed the picture at my disposal. I tendered her the 40,000 francs, and she said: 'I am much gratified at your giving me such a noble price, but I do not like to feel that I have taken advantage of your liberality. Let us see how we can combine in the matter. You will not be able to have an engraving made from so large a canvas. Suppose I paint you a small one of the same subject, of which I will make you a present.' Of course I accepted the gift, and thus it happened that the large work went traveling over the kingdom on exhibition, while Thomas Landseer was making an engraving from the quarter size replica.

"After some time, in 1857, I think, I sold the original picture to Mr. William P. Wright, New York (whose picture gallery and residence were at Weehawken, N. J.), for the sum of 30,000 francs, but as he claimed a share of the profits of its exhibition in New York and other cities he really paid me only 22,000 francs for it. I offered to repurchase the picture in 1870 for 50,000 francs, but ultimately I understood that Mr. Stewart paid a much larger price for it on the dispersion of Mr. Wright's gallery. The quarter size replica, from which the engraving was made, I finally sold to Mr. Jacob Bell, who bequeathed it in 1859 to the nation, and it is now in the National gallery in London. A second still smaller replica was painted a few years later and was resold some time ago in London for 44,000 ($20,000). There is also a smaller water color drawing, which was sold to Mr. Bolckow for 2,500 guineas ($12,000), and is now an heirloom belonging to the town of Middleborough. That is the whole history of this grand work. The Stewart canvas is the real and true original and only large size 'Horse Fair.' Once in Mr. Stewart's possession, it never left his gallery until the auction sale of his collection, March 25, 1887, when it was purchased by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt for the sum of $53,500 and presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art."

Miss Bonheur was very absentminded. She wore a shabby costume when painting and a pair of dilapidated slippers. More than once she went out without thinking of the negligence of this dress and discovered it when too late to make a change. There was a first performance one night at the Theatre Francaise in Paris of a piece written by an author friend of hers which she wished to hear. She was staying in town then, doing some work in a friend's studio. The servant rushed in to say that the carriage was at the door and the rest of the party waiting. Throwing down her palette and brushes and picking up her hat, she ran down stairs, got into the carriage, and, when they reached the theater, Rosa was placed next to a very stylish ribbonman, who, at the first entrance, complained to the usher that she had placed a woman next to him whose dress was stained with oil. "It is outrageous," said he indignantly. "Ask her to take another seat." The usher answered that he had no right to put people out who had paid for their places, but the gentleman made such a row that finally the head usher came up to know what it was all about.

"I am complaining of the woman who has the seat next to me. Go and see for yourself the way she is attired."

The head usher took one look at the dress circle; then, turning to the angry person, said:

"Your name, sir, if you please?"

"What do you want with my name?"

"That I may request Mlle. Rosa Bonheur, in your name, to leave her seat."

"You are joking with me."

"Not at all, sir. The lady in the dress stained with oil is the famous artist. Her costume, it is true, is in striking contrast with yours. Shall I ask her, in your name, to take another seat?"

The following story was told by Miss Bonheur to an interviewer concerning an amusing incident in her life. She said:

"Once when I was returning from the country in the male attire which I always wore on my travels I suddenly heard that one of my friends was ill, and, without finding time to change my costume, I hurried to the sickroom. As I was seated on the bed of the patient, holding her hand to ascertain if there was any fever, the doctor came in and, seeing me, a young man, in such a familiar position, hastily closed the door and discreetly retired. Then my friend reminded me that I was in male attire and that the physician may have been led to believe what was far from the truth. I immediately ran after the doctor, luckily caught him on the stairs and left him greatly surprised to hear that the young man he had just left tete-a-tete with his patient was me, Rosa Bonheur."

Her love for the animals she painted is illustrated by this story: A vicious lion had to be removed to Paris, and some months later, being in that city, she went one day to see her former pet. There was a great crowd around the cage. He was dying of disease and neglect. She called out to him: "Oh, my poor Nero! What have they done to you?" And he heard her and lifted up his poor head and saw her and crawled to the bars and lay down close beside them so she could touch him. She said it was only a common crowd there—ragamuffins and rough men and women—but there was not a dry eye there, and they all took off their hats to her as they recognized her.

Two days later the lion was dead. And when she ended her story her own bright eyes were dim, and I think ours were too. She waved her little hands and said: "You see, my friends, I am a real savage. I know no one, not even my fellow artists. I live with my peasants and my animals, and I think with my beloved La Fontaine that the company of beasts is often far preferable to that of men."

Special Agent Max Pracht of the federal building in Santa Fe the other day inserted an advertisement in The New Mexican, offering to buy ten horned toads. When he arrived at his office in the morning, he found an army of people lined up in the corridor, like the rush at Durango when the Ute lands were opened. The first ones in line seemed to have been there all night. Every grade of citizenship and servitude was represented. They had brought horned toads of all kinds, color, class and condition. Some were as small as a bedbug and others as large as a mud turtle. They were housed in cigar boxes, old hat boxes, handkerchiefs, shawls and satchels.

All day long young and old, large and tall, clean and dirty people called, offering horned toads for sale, until every one in the Federal building had a creepy, crawly, clammy feeling, and Mr. Pracht had selected the finest specimens that ever found their way to a zoological garden. He is convinced by this time that there are more horned toads in and around Santa Fe than anything else. The rush became so great in the afternoon that the sign "No More Horned Toads Wanted" was put out. But still they came, and Mr. Pracht was compelled to seize his hat and coat and flee into the jungle not far from the Federal building.—Santa Fe Mexican.

Cervera Remembers Friends.

Arthur C. Humphreys of Norfolk, Va., has received from Admiral Cervera and Captain Concas of the Spanish navy likenesses of themselves, sent to him as a token of regard. Each came in a pretty gilt frame made in Spain. The picture of Admiral Cervera was sent from his home in Madrid and that of Captain Concas came from his home in Barcelona. Dr. Humphreys also has received a handsome Spanish admiral's flag, made by the wife and daughter of Captain Concas and sent to him by that officer.—New York Press.

Impudence.

"I have just learned," she said, with a perceptible tinge of asperity, "that I am the ninth girl to whom you have been engaged."

"Well," he suavely replied, "that ought to make you glad."

"Glad!" she exclaimed. "I'd like to know why?"

"Don't you know," he answered, "that there's luck in odd numbers?"

A SUBDUER OF INDIANS.

Dr. Mary McKee's Brave Work Among the Moquis.

STAMPING OUT SMALLPOX PLAGUE.

Woman Physician, Employed by the Government, Compels the Indians to Submit to Vaccination and Fumigation Against Their Will—Troops Sent to Enforce Her Orders.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, writing under date of May 23 about smallpox among the Moqui Indians, says: The smallpox is so bad among the Moqui Indians in Arizona and is spreading so fast that there is fear that the whole tribe may be exterminated. In order to stop the plague Miss Mary McKee, the agency physician, with the assistance of Mr. Shoemaker, the farmer employed by the government to teach the Indians the science of agriculture and the use of modern implements, undertook to vaccinate the entire tribe, fumigate their houses and burn the effects of those who have died or were suffering from the disease.

The Indians made a stubborn resistance. They are fatalists. Their religion teaches them that a sick person is under the ban of the evil spirit, who can only be driven away by incantations and the use of the magic arts. Therefore it is not only difficult, but almost impossible, to convince them that smallpox can be prevented by the use of simple and ordinary precautions. Miss McKee decided to take matters into her own hands, and she ordered up the entire tribe for vaccination. The agent of the Moqui Indians, a man named Hazlett, also has the Navajos under his charge and lives with the latter tribe. But he readily gave his permission for this brave woman doctor to use her own judgment in stamping out the plague.

The Indians did not take the vaccination seriously. They are accustomed to a good deal of self torture, and a little scraping of the skin and soreness of the arm was not a matter of much consequence to them, but when Miss McKee invaded their houses and drove them out and put in her pans of sulphur they made a decided remonstrance. Then when she seized the clothing, bedding, furniture and other things that had been in the rooms of smallpox victims the relatives who expected to inherit the property objected. But neither this nor anything else stopped her until she had thoroughly cleansed and fumigated two of the seven villages and vaccinated every one of their inhabitants.

By that time an account of her performances had reached the other pueblos, and when she and Mr. Shoemaker arrived at the third one morning to begin their work the head chief appeared and refused them entrance. Behind them were ranged the caciques, or priests, the medicine men and the warriors of the village, armed with guns, bows and arrows and other weapons. The chief explained that they were willing to give the government medicine to the sick whenever Miss McKee prescribed it, but they could not allow her to come into their houses and burn their furniture and beds and sting the arms of their women and children.

Miss McKee tried to explain the object of vaccination and the benefits to be derived from disinfecting, and she warned them that unless they permitted her to have her way the whole tribe would die of the plague. Her words had no effect. The inhabitants of this and the five other villages absolutely refused to allow her to enter them. But she was not to be daunted. She immediately sent for Mr. Hazlett to come over from the Navajos and persuaded him to telegraph to Washington for the assistance of troops. Secretary Hitchcock presented the matter to Secretary Alger, and the commanding officer at Fort Wingate was instructed to send a company of men immediately to Moqui to defend Miss McKee and enforce her orders. They should have arrived there by this time, and it is a pity that a Kipling could not go with them to describe the scene that is occurring about now, with a delicate little woman as the hero instead of the British officer, in the thrilling tale that he tells of the attempt to enforce vaccination among the natives of India. The government is going to stand by Miss McKee if it takes every soldier left in our territory, and the Moquis have got to be vaccinated.

It would have been a blessing if Miss McKee had undertaken this duty 25 or 30 years ago, for smallpox is almost always epidemic among the Pueblo Indians, and no attempt has ever been made before to vaccinate them or fumigate their houses. There are 26 other pueblos in Arizona and New Mexico which are also suffering more or less from smallpox, and Dr. McKee's example will doubtless be followed by the other agency physicians.

Dr. Mary H. McKee is a Pennsylvanian and was appointed physician at Keams Canyon, A. T., in January, 1891, with a salary of $1,000 a year. She is about 35 years of age, slight of stature and of delicate physique. She has, however, shown a great deal of courage, zeal and efficiency, and ranks high on the records of the Indian office.

At any rate I could not go until the next meeting of presbytery, which convenes at Scroggsfield June 12-13. There may be something to say after that meeting, but nothing at present."

A Barge Stage Is Due Tomorrow, Allowing Coal Shipments

Only 2.6 feet more water is needed for a barge stage, and as there is a rise of six inches reported to be coming from the headwaters of the Monongahela, with more rain predicted, rivermen are confident that a coal shipping stage will develop within the next few days.

Owing to the rise the wickets at the dam were lowered yesterday, it being claimed that at a 7-foot stage or over the pressure is too heavy against the wickets to permit of their being kept up with safety. The marks at the wharf registered eight feet today.

Graveyards In China.

The wife of an American naval officer stationed at Tien-tsin writes thus to a friend in Baltimore: "The trip by train from the landing to Tien-tsin takes about an hour and a half. The cars are not palatial, but they are comfortable. When you land, hundreds of coolies besiege you for your baggage. You wonder how it ever reaches its destination in safety. The trip is somewhat interesting, but rather desolate to take alone. You pass through miles of graveyards. There are thousands of mounds without a sign of green grass or green leaf."

"China seems to be one vast graveyard, for they bury their dead anywhere they wish. They bury in large coffins placed on the surface of the ground, covered over with mud and earth. This is blown and washed away, and then the coffins are exposed to view. A few miles from the railroad station on the river you come to trees and vegetation. It reminds you of some of the poor land that some of our railroads at home go through."

How Frozen Insects Revive.

Experiments in reviving frozen insects, by Mr. S. F. Aaron, show some surprising results. A large cecropia moth, frozen in the center of a snowball until it was perfectly brittle, revived in 20 seconds when held near a stove. Several newly hatched moths revived in a similar manner after being frozen stiff and then thawed out. Similar experiments with ants, butterflies and house flies gave the same results. But Mr. Aaron noticed that recently hatched insects resist cold better than older ones.

PICKERING AND AMOS

Were Bound Over to Court Yesterday Afternoon

IN THE SUM OF $1,500

Pickering Didn't Like the Action of the Mayor and Made a Few Remarks—The Prosecuting Witness Did Not Recognize Either Pickering or Amos.

The case against Dunk Pickering before Mayor Bough yesterday afternoon was not called until 2:30 o'clock or almost an hour later than it should have been. The testimony was interspersed with numerous tilts between the mayor and Attorney W. M. Hill, who defended Pickering.

Mrs. Emma Copestick, John Weaver and Mrs. Elizabeth Stanaway told the same stories as they did in the former cases.

John Murray, night watchman at the East Liverpool pottery, was a new witness. He said he saw Dunk Pickering on Sunday night on Second street between 11 and 12 o'clock, and was asked by him if a person could bring a girl in the pottery. Cross examined witness added that Pickering said it was not him who wanted to bring the girl to the pottery.

William T. Maloney, night watchman at Brunt's, said he did not see Pickering at the pottery the evening of May 21.

Francis O'Hanlon, bartender at Thompson's saloon, saw Pickering on that Sunday evening at Second and Union streets. Pickering told him he had hit Weaver in the mouth, but said nothing about the girl. This occurred about 10:30 o'clock.

She Couldn't Say.

Miss Mary Wancik and the interpreter Joseph Bilane were then placed on the stand and the same old story was told. She was asked if she recognized Pickering, and turned and looked at him and said she did not. She then said it was too dark to see that night. On cross examination she said she never saw Pickering before. The mayor asked the same question, and she replied that she didn't know as it was dark that night.

The defense presented no witnesses and Attorney W. M. Hill in making the argument stated that he had heard it said that the defendant was going to be bound over and that he had been told the mayor had said he intended to bind the defendant over before the testimony was given. He then read what the law said the state must prove before he could be bound over and made a short argument on the case.

The mayor said an attorney could not be blamed for making a vigorous effort in behalf of his client but he always considered the testimony before him. The mayor then reviewed the testimony and bound Pickering over in the sum of $1,500.

"You might as well make it $15,000. What am I bound over for? The grand jury will laugh at you," said Pickering. "They would laugh at me if I turned you loose in this community," said the mayor and the affair ended.

Amos on Trial.

The case against Charles Amos was called next. Mrs. Copestick told the same old story as did John Weaver. Mrs. Stanaway saw Amos at the hotel shortly after the girl had left and he was still there when she went to bed. William T. Maloney didn't know whether he saw Amos on the Sunday evening in question but thought he did.

Mary Wancik and the interpreter, Joseph Bilane, repeated her story and then said she did not know whether she ever saw the defendant before.

The state rested, and Amos had Edward Mosby, Walter Wright and Hattie Lewis subpoenaed. Miss Lewis said Amos did not follow the girl out of the hotel and was still at the hotel at 12 o'clock. Walter Wright swore Amos didn't leave the hotel until 12 o'clock. Ed Mosby corroborated and Amos himself told his story as told by his witnesses.

The mayor said the witnesses for the defense were contradictory and bound the prisoner over in the sum of $1,500.

A Barge Stage Is Due Tomorrow, Allowing Coal Shipments

Only 2.6 feet more water is needed for a barge stage, and as there is a rise of six inches reported to be coming from the headwaters of the Monongahela, with more rain predicted, rivermen are confident that a coal shipping stage will develop within the next few days.

Owing to the rise the wickets at the dam were lowered yesterday, it being claimed that at a 7-foot stage or over the pressure is too heavy against the wickets to permit of their being kept up with safety. The marks at the wharf registered eight feet today.

The Case Against Mrs. Una Walters Is Being Heard.

The case of the state of Ohio against Mrs. Una Walters upon a charge of shop lifting is being heard this afternoon before Mayor Bough. Graveyards in China.

The wife of an American naval officer stationed at Tien-tsin writes thus to a friend in Baltimore: "The trip by train from the landing to Tien-tsin takes about an hour and a half. The cars are not palatial, but they are comfortable. When you land, hundreds of coolies besiege you for your baggage. You wonder how it ever reaches its destination in safety. The trip is somewhat interesting, but rather desolate to take alone. You pass through miles of graveyards. There are thousands of mounds without a sign of green grass or green leaf.

"China seems to be one vast graveyard, for they bury their dead anywhere they wish. They bury in large coffins placed on the surface of the ground, covered over with mud and earth. This is blown and washed away, and then the coffins are exposed to view. A few miles from the railroad station on the river you come to trees and vegetation. It reminds you of some of the poor land that some of our railroads at home go through."

How Frozen Insects Revive.

Experiments in reviving frozen insects, by Mr. S. F. Aaron, show some surprising results. A large cecropia moth, frozen in the center of a snowball until it was perfectly brittle, revived in 20 seconds when held near a stove. Several newly hatched moths revived in a similar manner after being frozen stiff and then thawed out. Similar experiments with ants, butterflies and house flies gave the same results. But Mr. Aaron noticed that recently hatched insects resist cold better than older ones.

PICKERING AND AMOS

Pickering Didn't Like the Action of the Mayor and Made a Few Remarks—The Prosecuting Witness Did Not Recognize Either Pickering or Amos.

The case against Dunk Pickering before Mayor Bough yesterday afternoon was not called until 2:30 o'clock or almost an hour later than it should have been. The testimony was interspersed with numerous tilts between the mayor and Attorney W. M. Hill, who defended Pickering.

Mrs. Emma Copestick, John Weaver and Mrs. Elizabeth Stanaway told the same stories as they did in the former cases.

John Murray, night watchman at the East Liverpool pottery, was a new witness. He said he saw Dunk Pickering on Sunday night on Second street between 11 and 12 o'clock, and was asked by him if a person could bring a girl in the pottery. Cross examined witness added that Pickering said it was not him who wanted to bring the girl to the pottery.

William T. Maloney, night watchman at Brunt's, said he did not see Pickering at the pottery the evening of May 21.

Francis O'Hanlon, bartender at Thompson's saloon, saw Pickering on that Sunday evening at Second and Union streets. Pickering told him he had hit Weaver in the mouth, but said nothing about the girl. This occurred about 10:30 o'clock.

She Couldn't Say.

Miss Mary Wancik and the interpreter Joseph Bilane were then placed on the stand and the same old story was told. She was asked if she recognized Pickering, and turned and looked at him and said she did not. She then said it was too dark to see that night. On cross examination she said she never saw Pickering before. The mayor asked the same question, and she replied that she didn't know as it was dark that night.

The defense presented no witnesses and Attorney W. M. Hill in making the argument stated that he had heard it said that the defendant was going to be bound over and that he had been told the mayor had said he intended to bind the defendant over before the testimony was given. He then read what the law said the state must prove before he could be bound over and made a short argument on the case.

The mayor said an attorney could not be blamed for making a vigorous effort in behalf of his client but he always considered the testimony before him. The mayor then reviewed the testimony and bound Pickering over in the sum of $1,500.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1899.

TWO CENTS

A HARMONY MASK

Put Over Leaders' Differences In State Convention.

SPEECHES OUTSIDE DEFIANT

The Convention Again Convened This Morning.

DAUGHERTY APPEARED TO LEAD.

The keynote of the Address of Huling and Kerr was for harmony—Foraker, Hanna, Bushnell and Foster spoke in the advocacy of forgetting factional differences—Foraker, in an address to the McKisson Delegation, told them they were the rightful one—Said he joined them in putting on their fighting clothes—Must let the people of the party have a voice in their councils if they were to have right and prestige—Daugherty made a speech which some interpreted in connection with that of Foraker—Action by the State Central Committee which indicated that the Cox Delegation would be seated, from Hamilton County.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The Republican state convention reassembled at about 10 o'clock this morning.

Daugherty appeared to be in the lead, but the conference continued, however, and the field may next turn on Daugherty. There were those who believed that no winning combination can be formed until after the test of balloting. The committee on rules and order of business, last night, limited all nominating speeches to five minutes, with only one succeeding speech of one minute, in anticipation of the convention running late into Friday night or being continued over to Saturday.

The committee on permanent organization decided to report in favor of making the temporary organization permanent.

Among the features of Thursday were the speeches at the hotels that were bitter and defiant, and those at the convention that were all for harmony. The leaders, who joined the chorus at the auditorium from 4 to 6 p. m. in a sort of peace jubilee, spent the night, however, in contests and conferences that were not very harmonious.

While the forces of Cox, Daugherty and Kurtz combined against Nash as the Hanna candidate in all the preliminary work, yet this combine can not apparently get together on any one man for governor. Cox wants a dark horse, and is grooming Shattuc till he names his favorite. Foraker wants Jones. Kurtz doesn't want Jones or Daugherty if he can get someone he likes better. Meantime, Daugherty insists that he has more votes than Jones, Cox and Kurtz can command, that they should come to him if they want to defeat Nash and thereby indirectly defeat Hanna. It is in this complication that Hanna is likely to be brought out.

The new state committee elected Vivian J. G. Fagin chairman and P. W. Durr secretary and will meet here June 17 for permanent organization.

Hon. Cyrus Huling, as chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order Thursday afternoon. There were demonstrations as Senators Hanna and Foraker entered the hall, and the Glee club commanded such attention as to secure order. Rev. S. S. Palmer offered prayer, after which Chairman Huling in part said:

"The Republicans of Ohio are deeply in earnest this year. They feel that the prosperity of the country, the expansion of our commerce and the honor of the flag they love depend upon the endorsement of Mr. McKinley this year by the triumphant election of the candidates nominated at this convention and his renomination and re-election next year to the high place he now holds."

He then pled for harmony.

Mr. Huling announced that the state committee had selected the following temporary organization: Chairman, Hon. W. S. Kerr of Mansfield; secretary, Hon. E. L. Lamson of Ashtabula; sergeant-at-arms, Frederick Bader of Cincinnati.

On being introduced, Congressman Kerr was heartily cheered.

The delegates took up his keynote for harmony, and proceeded to call on certain leaders for speeches. All responded except General Grosvenor, who had left the hall, and ex-Governor Foster was called out in his place.

Senator Foraker said there were very many things for Ohio Republicans to talk about just now, and to think about and to act on wisely, and he commended the speech of Mr. Kerr as the true keynote for them. He joined in the plea for peace. The great duty of Ohio Republicans was to get together. United, they were invincible, and divided, they were beaten in advance. They needed not only a good platform, but also a standardbearer who was the very strongest man, no matter what was his name or his past affiliations in the party. There has not been in the present generation such an important election in Ohio, none ever more easy for Republicans to carry, and yet never one they could more easily lose. Ohio is the home of McKinley and should head the column for next year.

Senator Hanna made a most vigorous appeal for harmony. He referred to the speeches of Huling, Kerr and Foraker that had been made for harmony, and urged that it would be necessary for all to work together if the Republicans won in Ohio this year. He said no man was as great as his party, although the Democratic papers were now trying to make out a case of some Republicans being greater than their party. He said:

"The Democratic papers cannot run this convention. We know our own business better than they. We have been in politics as long as they. Our experience is better, our motives purer, our aims higher."

Senator Hanna said they would like one another better the longer they looked into each other's faces, and that they would find out tomorrow (Friday) that there were no differences in the party. He urged such harmony and such organization as would give them the confidence of the president, with an army and navy to back up his policies. Like all the preceding speakers, he eulogized President McKinley and pleaded for success this year and his interest next year.

Governor Bushnell created quite an amusing stir in following Senator Hanna, and saying:

"There appears to be every evidence of harmony here. That's what we need; that's what we all want." He continued on the keynote for peace and harmony, as did also ex-Governor Charles Foster, who followed him in a speech urging the factions to get together.

Under the call of the 21 congressional districts the following committees were announced:

Hubbard and Jacob Beidler; twenty-first, Holcomb delegation, B. Mallin; Hanna, F. M. Chandler; McKisson, Fred L. Taft.

Senator Foraker created a sensation by declarations which indicated to delegates that he was opposing Senator Hanna. When the members of the McKisson delegation arrived they serenaded Senator Foraker at the Southern hotel, the headquarters of the anti-Hanna and anti-Nash men. The senator said he joined them in putting on his fighting clothes and closed his speech thus:

"We are on the eve of a great political battle and Ohio is to play a most important part in this battle and I say to you that she must be right. This convention is a most important one and if we are to have right and prestige with us we must let the people of our party have a voice in our councils. I say here and now that I believe you men to be loyal, legal representatives of your party and I hope to see you stand in the convention."

Hon. H. M. Daugherty was serenaded and made a speech, which some interpreted in connection with the speech of Senator Foraker as indicating that the field was showing defiance to Senators Hanna and Judge Nash. Mr. Daugherty said in closing: "I have no quarrel with any man within or without the Republican party—unless he should by mistake forget that it is within the province of the people to make the candidate for governor."

At the district meetings in the afternoon the combine, including the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces, had a bare majority and secured control of the committee, including the pivotal point in the organization conceded to be vested in the committee on credentials, but the Hanna and Nash men claimed a majority of the delegates by counties. The jority of the delegates by counties, after affirming their previous action at Cincinnati, met jointly and adopted a resolution authorizing Chairman Cox to cast the 86 votes of Hamilton county in the convention under the unit rule. There was talk among the delegates about presenting ex-Congressman John A. Caldwell of Cincinnati for lieutenant governor, if Congressman Shattuc or no other man from Hamilton county got first place.

Owing to the intense feeling over the contested delegations from seven counties, the state central committee attempted to decide what constituted cause for a contest. The committee decided in the case of Hamilton county what did not constitute cause for contest by ruling that contests would be decided on the party law as expounded in the call of this year and not on the calls for state conventions in former years.

This seated the Cox delegation in the temporary organization and gives it full representation for the First and Second congressional districts on all the committees.

The action of the state committee showed an alliance of the field against Nash, that the Daugherty, Cox and Kurtz forces were pulling together on the selection of members of the committee on credentials and in other preliminary work. This would imply the seating of the Holcomb delegations from Cleveland against both the Hanna and McKisson delegations, and it eliminated Mayor McKisson not only from this convention, but also from the old combine with Kurtz, Bushnell and others.

When it comes to balloting for governor the action of the state committee will also have its effect, but the extent of its final influence cannot be predicted.

Congressman Kerr spoke in part as follows:

"I do not delude myself with the belief that I shall here and today sound the keynote of the campaign we are about to enter. Its keynote has been sounded already and elsewhere than here. It has been sounded in Washington and Columbus—in the patriotism and heroism of the administration of President McKinley and in the wisdom and honesty and business of the administration of Governor Bushnell."

"Upon the record of these two splendid Republican administrations, at the end of this campaign we shall win a Republican victory for the Republican party."

He then spoke of the condition of the national treasury and of business, when William McKinley was inaugurated, and the prosperity that had come since his inauguration. He further said in part:

"Even the dispeptic Populist admits that we are prosperous, and his Democratic ally is so busy gathering in the shekels that he has forgotten to howl. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which cannot be suspected of giving partial testimony favoring the Republican party, had in its issue of May 18 of this year the following: 'We are doing an amazing domestic business. Since the first of the year loans and discounts have been a little over $100,000,000 greater than for the same time last year, and in the entire year a little over $300,000,000. Since the first of the year individuals have prospered so greatly that they have been able to deposit in our banks $200,000,000 more than they deposited in the corresponding months of last year.' And I may add that the business of last year showed a corresponding increase over the year before."

"Using the Enquirer's word, I may say that we are also doing an 'amazing' foreign business. Last year we sold $900,000,000 more than we bought. Statistics show how we have been gradually, under the wise policy adopted and executed by the Republican party, increasing our capacity to supply ourselves and at the same time increase our trade with foreign nations. In the nine months ending March 31, 1898, we were selling abroad $113,000,000 in manufactured articles and buying $270,000,000. In the nine months ending March 31, 1899, we sold abroad $242,000,000 in manufactured articles and bought $194,000,000. The showing as to the iron and steel industries is simply marvelous. In 1898 we bought from abroad $71,900,000 of iron and steel manufactures and sold only $14,900,000. In 1898 we bought only $12,900,000 and sold $79,000,000—we were not only supplying ourselves, but we were capturing the markets of the world."

"In 1893, at the end of the second Cleveland administration, we were buying abroad $1,000,000 a year in iron and steel more than we were selling; in 1898 we sold more than five times as much as we bought."

"But this was not all the Republican party had to do. It had the financial, business and industrial rehabilitation of the country to accomplish, and with this, almost immediately, were complicated grave questions of foreign intercourse and finally war."

For three years before, he said, an oppressed people had been struggling for liberty. President McKinley through diplomacy tried to improve conditions as regarded Cuba. Finally it was necessary to make war. The Democrats were clamorous for war. Said he in part:

"Their representatives in congress voted with us for the $50,000,000 appropriation to prepare for war and from that on, with the army in the field, and the navy on the sea, their representatives gave their support to no other measure to support the war. 'My country, right or wrong, my country, should have governed their conduct. Notwithstanding this war ended in victory and we are not here to criticize or complain. There should be no partisanship in patriotism, and I am glad that there are a few in the republic whose hearts do not swell with pride in seeing the flag of our country floating over territory so wide and universal that the rays of the evening sun have not died upon its shining folds until the morning beams flood with light its stars and stripes of glory."

"Through the war and its results our country will take its true position toward civilization and progress in the future. In the days to come, when the last hundred years of American history have become tradition, when the deeds of the heroes of this century are woven into national song and story three mighty figures will stand above the American world and above all the rest. The first will be Washington, the second will be Lincoln and the third McKinley."

"In some quarters grave doubts are being expressed as to the future of the republic. So far as these expressions emanate from Democrats, and they are largely from that quarter, they simply express the normal conditions of doubt and distress which are inseparable from the deranged organism and the melancholy soul of the Democratic party. A few others whose souls are not attuned to the music of progress are declaiming against the wrongs and dangers of expansion and imperialism."

"They say it is unconstitutional and un-American to extend our territory. A distinguished federal judge recently said: 'The people of the United States, without breach of faith to the promises of the past, or serious danger to the expectations of our future, can hold permanently all or a portion of the territory that has been occupied by our troops during the progress of war.' I subscribe to that doctrine. It was not a judicial utterance

but it announced the law. If this is not law, constitutional and moral obligations required that we should give back to France the Louisiana territory reaching from the Lake of the Woods to the Balize.' We should give back Florida and Key West to Spain, Texas and the California country with all its gold to Mexico, Alaska to Russia and Hawaii to Queen Lil."

"I do not mean that we should go out into the world seeking territorial conquest. I do not mean that we shall become in any way entangled with foreign countries or interested in their internal polity. We shall not do this. The influence I would yield would come through the force and potency of a splendid navy and splendid merchant marine. I would send ships of war and ships of peace, bearing at their masthead the Stars and Stripes and the white banner of peace into every part of the world and upon every billow of the sea. I would send the products of our shops and factories, of our mines and farms, upon the American ships, manned by American seamen, wherever there were people to buy and water to float the ships. To do this we must have naval and commercial bases abroad. On the other shore of the Pacific, 500,000,000 of people are emerging from barbarism: civilization will multiply their wants and desires a thousand fold, and civilization will supply these wants and satisfy these desires. Our flag now floats at Honolulu, on the Atitun islands, and in the Bay of Manila. With these footholds in the western ocean, we shall secure our share of the imperial commerce of the Orient and add to our industrial supremacy the supremacy of the seas."

"The Republican party always fulfilled its pledges and fulfilled them promptly. Its promise in 1896 was for the enactment of a tariff law which would protect American labor and American industry. Within 15 days of the inauguration of McKinley congress was assembled in extra session, and in 15 days more the Dingley tariff bill had passed the house. In due time the bill passed the senate."

"We promised in 1896 that if given the power we would make such amendments to our currency laws as would correct their evils and plant our monetary system upon a basis sound and enduring. No power was given us to make amendments until the election of the present congress, and within 40 days after it had come into existence a Republican committee of its members met and prepared a plan in fulfilling that pledge. As a member of that committee I am not at liberty at this time to disclose even the substance of its determination, but, as a member of the Republican party, I am at liberty to declare what the Republican party proposes to do, now that it has power in both branches of congress and in the executive. It proposes to enact in form of law the gold standard and then it proposes to keep every dollar in use in the country up to that standard."

"The Republican party is not satisfied with the extensions of the civil service of President Cleveland. We believe that the present states of the civil service do not reflect an honest effort to inaugurate genuine civil service, but rather a successful attempt to wrest from the Republican party the legitimate results of its victory."

"Before the extensions of the civil service were made by Cleveland, the most expert political manipulators had filled the department at Washington with Democrats—they did not start fair—civil service is supposed to be non-political, and to give every citizen without regard to his position, color, or political affiliation an equal chance for office. Let me show you how the present status accords with that theory. In May, 1898, Hon. F. Palmer, the head of the public printing office, reported to the senate committee, then engaged in investigating the civil service, that in the printing office there were 2,412 Democrats and 560 Republicans. Now, my fellow citizens, for a system whose basis is said to be equality and a fair chance, I submit that the original capitalization was too largely Democratic."

"More than ten years ago the Republican party in national convention declared as follows: 'We declare our opposition to all combinations of capital, organized in trust or otherwise to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among our citizens; and we recommend to congress and state legislatures in their respective jurisdictions such legislation as will prevent the execution of all schemes to oppress the people by undue charges on their supplies, or by unjust rates for the transportation of the products to market. We approve the legislation of congress to prevent alike unjust burdens and unfair discriminations between the states.' This declaration was within a year of the organization of the first trust in the United States."

"In the congress following John Sherman, then a senator of the United States, introduced in the senate a bill with a title as follows: 'To declare unlawful trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and production.' On June 26, 1890, this bill became a law with the following title: 'An act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.' In many of the states the Republican party passed laws making unlawful these combinations and monopolies. Republican officials have been industrious and persistent in prosecuting violations of these anti-trust laws, and under decisions rendered in the prosecutions many of these combinations have been dissolved. The supreme court of the United States, a tribunal above politics or political influence, but a majority of whose members are Republicans, rendered decisions which dissolved the Joint Traffic and Trans-Mississippi associations, the gigantic railroad combinations intended to control and fix railroad charges. Other cases are pending wherein the anti-trust laws will be enforced."

"In Ohio, Republican attorneys general have been faithful and industrious in prosecuting all combinations or trusts in violation of being the friends of the trusts. The Republican party is against all illegal or wrongful or injurious combinations of capital, whereby it is intended to control prices and suppress competition, and it will enact laws and elect officers to execute them until these combinations are broken up and their existence rendered impossible."

"The Democratic party claims to be in favor of shortening the hours of labor. So are we. 'The Republican party is now as it has been since the close of the Civil war in favor of just pensions for Union soldiers, and it is now as it has been since the close of the Spanish war in favor of just pensions for those who fought the Spaniards and the fever in that conflict. Any policy which does not deal justly and liberally with the soldiers of the republic will not meet our approbation."

"The Republicans of Ohio are proud of Ohio's great Senators Foraker and Hanna, both of whom have added lustre and renown to the great positions they hold. Ohio Republicans never forget grand old John Sherman, and to him in retirement this great convention sends greeting and love. Especially should be remembered on an occasion like this the Republican state executive and state central committees under whose wise direction and by reason of whose faithful labors last year we won a great Republican victory."

"And now, my Republican brethren, let us have peace. Rivalry and competition for place or position or power may have strained a little the bonds of our affection, but it must not, it cannot break the ties which bind us to the Republican party."

"Now and here in this splendid Republican presence, looking into the faces of our heroes living and looked upon by the pictured faces of our heroes dead, in the name of the Republican party and all it has done for our country, let us strike hands, and following the lead of McKinley and Foraker, and Hanna and Grosvenor and Bushnell and the rest, let us go forth from this convention united and to victory."

RESOLUTIONS COMPLETED.

The Holcomb Delegation From Cleveland and Cox Men From Cincinnati Seated.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The sub-committee on resolutions completed their work. The resolutions commend the last legislature for its legislation against trusts, denounce lynchings, endorse the administrations of President McKinley and Governor Bushnell, recommend a uniform system of selecting delegates from the counties to the state convention, also the advancement of the merchant marine and uniform system of government for municipalities.

The committee on credentials seated the Holcomb delegation from Cleveland, which is divided between Daugherty and Nash. The other two delegations got only four votes out of the 21 on the committee, one of the defeated delegations being headed by ex-Mayor McKisson. The Cox delegates from Hamilton county were seated, as were the Nash delegates from Franklin. The contests in Allen, Adams, Preble and Highland counties were decided without making material changes.

BABY MARION CLARK FOUND.

Restored to Her Parents—Man and Woman Who Had Her Arrested at Garnersville, N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Baby Marion B. Clark has been found and restored to her parents and two alleged kidnapers, a man and a woman, have been placed under arrest. The woman was arrested at Garnersville. The man who was with a a h s t m was allowed to return to New York city, but I e gave himself up at Garnersville.

Attention was first attracted to the woman and child when they called at the postoffice, the woman asking for mail for Mrs. Jennie Wilson. The postmistress noticed the resemblance of the child to the pictures of Baby Clark, and she notified an officer.

The father took the child home. A great crowd cheered the baby and mother when they were called to a window. No reason for the abduction was given.

Court Decided For the Trust.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A part of the agreement of the Trap Rock quarry trust, formed about two years ago, was that only the agent of the trust could sell the stone, and a penalty of $5,000 was prescribed for violating this clause. Brown & Fleming accepted an order. The trust demanded the penalty of $5,000, but the firm refused. The company instituted suit. Brown & Fleming filed a demurrer, setting forth that by the declaration of the plaintiff the company admitted it was a trust and that it was an illegal combination. The New Jersey supreme court gave a decision overruling the demurrer. The four Democratic justices voted against the demurrer. The coal combine was dissolved by Chancellor Magill a few years ago for the same reasons that were advanced in the demurrer.

THE EAST END.

NO TIME HAS BEEN SET

All Depends on the Meeting In New York City

WHEN PIPE WORKS WILL START

There is no definite time set for the Knowles, Taylor & Anderson plant to resume operations. Mr. Anderson is still in New York city attending a meeting of the promoters of the sewer pipe trust, and when he returns it is thought something definite relative to the starting of the big works will be known. Since the plant shut down during the holidays many improvements have been made to the machinery and kilns and everything is in readiness to put the plant in operation on short notice. The stock of pipe is very low, and as several car loads are shipped every day it is getting lower and within a few weeks if the present rate of shipping is continued there will be very little pipe left to sell.

STARTED TO PAVE.

Wet Weather Causing Much Inconvenience to the Work on Pennsylvania Ave.

The wet weather is interfering seriously with the improving of Pennsylvania avenue. Yesterday afternoon after about 50 yards of paving had been completed the 22 men working under Contractor Rinehart were compelled to quit work. The work has been delayed considerably on account of the weather, but with several bright days the work will be extended considerably. The grading is slow work, but much of the hill on the north side of the street railway has been taken away. The large rocks in the hill that have been exposed on account of the grading cannot be blasted. If any explosive matter is used the hill will be damaged to some extent and the houses above it will be endangered.

The telephone poles between Mulberry street and Virginia avenue will be moved by the company as soon as the construction force can be secured.

Albert Shenkle Recovering From a Wound In His Head.

Albert Shenkle, who was mysteriously injured Memorial day, is lying at his home suffering great pain. It has been found that a vein in his head had been injured, and the physicians say that if he would have been allowed to remain unattended much longer on Tuesday it would have caused his death. Wednesday night he was unable to sleep on account of the injury, but it is thought he is now out of danger.

CONGRESSMAN TAYLER

Interviewed In Columbus on His Choice For Speaker.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Hon. R. W. Tayler, of the Eighteenth district, in an interview said he favored either Henderson, of Iowa, or Sherman, of New York, for speaker. He did not believe it was a fight between the east and west for the speakership, but thought Ohio could name the speaker, if the delegation voted as a unit. On the governorship he was noncommittal, having a candidate from his own county, Hon. I. B. Cameron, for treasurer of state, and declined to say who he favored. It is but fair to believe that Mr. Tayler is for anybody the national administration wants.

Prominent Citizen Thinks the Police Matter Will Not End at the Trial.

It has been several days since there was anything new in the cases of Officers Whan and Grim and the matter seems to have died out, but it is only for the time being and there may be some new developments soon. A prominent citizen who is very intimate with one of the officers made the following statement to a reporter this morning: "Don't think this thing will end now. If the charges are not substantiated there may be trouble for somebody. Charges of this kind are serious and are hard to prove."

TEN DOLLAR SUIT SALE.

$12, $14, $15, $16 Suits for $10.

A semi-Annual Clearance of Broken Lots to Prevent Accumulation.

TO men who have a proper conception of a well regulated business, this terse explanation for cutting prices in the heart of a season will be appreciated. One hundred suits come in of a kind, 50 of another, 150 of another, and so the stock is bought. It is impossible to sell out to the last suit of any lot, because no matter how desirable the patterns may be, no matter how great the value, a man who wants a size 40 has no use for a size 36, and so on. And so these odds and ends, sold far below regular prices, are in truth a gathering of the best sellers, mostly fresh spring '99 makes, though some from previous seasons, worth up to $16, have been included.

A gathering of remnants and a sale to prevent accumulation—in other words we prefer to give our customers $12, $15 $16 suits now for $10 than to carry them over and perhaps sell for less. The first loss to us is the wisest in more ways than one.

Hospital Association Held an Interesting Session.

DEFINITE STEPS WERE TAKEN

The Hospital association has at last taken action that may provide the city with a much needed hospital.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the association held yesterday afternoon at the Young Men's Christian association rooms and there was no end of enthusiasm. The question was thoroughly discussed and it was finally decided to purchase land upon which to build a hospital and the matter was left in the hands of the site committee, consisting of Mrs. R. B. Stevenson, Mrs. Emma Palmer and Mrs. George Grosshans with instructions to report at a meeting to be held in the First M. E. church Monday evening, June 12.

Just as soon as the ladies decide upon a location and purchase the land they will begin a systematic canvass for donations and they expect to meet with success in their efforts. Just what plan will be adopted to secure donations has not yet been decided, but every available means will be discussed before any action is taken.

The election of officers was laid over for two weeks for good and sufficient reasons.

RIGHT IN THE CITY

You will do well, readers of the News Review, to note very carefully the subject matter of this article, as there is a good investment for you right at hand; an investment such as has not been offered you in this section at any time in the past. It recommends itself, as you will acknowledge when you investigate matters, note the location and sum up the improvements which will surely be made. Read carefully and then pass judgment.

The East Liverpool Land company will place on the market a number of lots situated on Thompson hill, not over four minutes' walk from the center of the city. These lots will have an advantage over many that have been sold recently, in that they will be improved—that is, streets and sidewalks paved, sewers, gas and water provided for and grade established. It can easily be seen the advantages that these lots have. No street car fare to contend with, amounting to a large saving in the course of a year. The grade being established there will be no danger in being left a hundred feet above the street or of having the top story where the cellar should be.

In fact, these lots contain all the advantages and none of the disadvantages of many lots recently sold at the same price. A warranty deed given to each purchaser, and the price will be about the same as many unimproved lots now on the market.

The Circus Is Here.

The small boy of the city is in his glory today, for the reason that John H. Sparks' circus arrived in the city this morning and pitched their tents upon Brant's hill.

The show has been south all winter and has been on the road continuously for four years. The great lion act is a feature of the show which gives general satisfaction in every department.

SOUTH SIDE.

CHESTER HAS A COP.

Those Who Break the Law on the Virginia Side Will Be Severely Dealt With.

Yesterday Robert Marshall, of Chester, was appointed marshal by the citizens of that district, at a salary of $35 per month. He went on duty yesterday afternoon, but no arrests have been made by the new officer yet. Enough money to pay his wages for a year has been subscribed, and if he is successful in his work he will be reappointed at the end of his present term. Should any offenders be gathered in they will be taken before Justice Newell and heard at once. If they are found guilty and have no money to pay their fines a trip to Cumberland will result. As the citizens of the other side protest against working on the extension of the railroad on Sunday, Contractor McNally will be notified to stop work tomorrow night and do no more until Monday.

Change of Residence.

Mr. Clendenning, who has resided in Brick Block for some time, will move to the Shrader building, near the county road bridge, next week. The rooms made vacant by Mr. Clendenning will be occupied by Walter McDonald, of Hookstown.

More Brick.

This morning another barge of brick was landed on the Virginia side opposite Babb's island to be used in the construction of the new mill. As soon as a place can be chosen to store the brick the barges will be unloaded.

Divine Services.

Last evening divine services were held in the school house and United Presbyterian chapel. Miss Crill had charge of the meeting in the school house while Reverend Gillis preached at the latter place.

Bought a Barn.

John Martin yesterday purchased a barn owned by Henry Riley. The barn had to be moved from the Riley farm on account of the extension of the railroad, and it will be placed on the Martin farm next week.

Start Monday.

Monday John Shrader will commence the erection of a brick dwelling on the ground occupied by one of his frame residences. The latter building will be moved to another location tomorrow.

Home Again.

Justice Newell, who has been spending some time in California, is expected home tomorrow evening. The last word received from him was from Indianapolis.

More Men Working.

Contractor McNally yesterday placed an additional force of 20 negroes to work on the new road. The men are working in the vicinity of the upper shovel.

A Social.

The first social of the season will be given in the United Presbyterian chapel early next week. The young people of the church will have charge.

HARMONY ALL AROUND.

The opening day of the Columbus convention showed that the declaration that the delegates would be unanimous for the endorsement of President McKinley and the administration was well founded. Significant speeches favoring harmony in the party were delivered by all the leaders, and Temporary Chairman Kerr's address was on the same line.

ALL APPROVE IT.

The voting machine is coming. In the state of New York it has already come. Rochester owns 73 and likes them so well that no one would think of going back to the old system. Utica owns 28 and the feeling there is the same as in Rochester. Albany has ordered 60, and Buffalo has just placed an order for 110 machines. These adjuncts to a quick, secret and honest ballot will soon be indispensable.

THE COLOR QUESTION.

If Hasskarl would come to East Liverpool, form the close and intimate acquaintance of Reverend Carson, pastor of the African M. E. church, study the said pastor's life and character, note his address and intelligence, judge him from the standpoints of brain power and intellectuality, and then render a verdict in accord with the facts discovered, Hasskarl would be forced to acknowledge that the "missing link" is far to be preferred to the completed man, Carson representing the "link" and Hasskarl the "completion."

COLUMBIANA'S CANDIDATE.

Columbiana county is deeply interested in I. B. Cameron's success as a candidate before the Republican state convention for the nomination for state treasurer on account of his splendid capabilities and fitness for the position. His record in this county as treasurer and later as receiver for the bank at Lisbon has exemplified the fact that he is fitted for any position like to that to which he is aspiring in the state. Columbiana county would be honored in his selection for state treasurer, while the state cannot do a better thing than place him in the position.

NASH THE MAN

Nominated on Second Ballot
This Afternoon.

CAMERON WINS ON FIRST

With the Others Away Behind--When Hamilton County Swung Over to Nash the Cuyahoga Delegation Moved to Make It Unanimous--Great Enthusiasm Greeted the Result.

COLUMBUS, June 2.—[Special]—Nothing could be heard here this morning but the vociferous claims of the rooters for the various candidates. The Daugherty people made the biggest noise and the Nash crowd speedily trumped the claim by starting a report that it was now the field against Daugherty. This promptly rallied the field against the Daugherty boomers, the disposition all along being for the field to unite in opposition to whoever seemed to have the lead. The strategy of the Nash people served its purpose and by the time the convention opened the Daugherty boom that had jumped to first place in the night was back in the ranks, and the situation was the same as it had been when the first session of the convention closed yesterday.

The Jones shouters have been playing the compromise candidate racket for all it is worth and this morning many shrewd politicians said they wouldn't be surprised if the Youngstown man by the aid of the anti-Hannaites secured the nomination.

Meanwhile the friends of I. B. Cameron, of Columbiana county, are fighting shy of entangling alliances and watching out for his chances for the state treasurership which they say is now a cinch. He stands well with all the gubernatorial candidates and is wisely making his own fight without any complicating deals with any of them.

When the convention opened today the temporary organization, with W. S. Kerr as chairman, was made permanent.

The committee on resolutions sent in a ringing declaration of principles. It takes a decided stand against trusts and endorses President McKinley's administration as well as Governor Bushnell's. Senators Hanna and Foraker are also praised.

The first ballot for governor gave Nash 289 votes, Daugherty, 211; Jones, 76; Nevins, 82; Hull, 39; Durban, 46; Douglas, 60; Orr, 17.

On the second ballot Hamilton county went over solid to Nash, nominating him amid a scene of wild enthusiasm. Cuyahoga county moved to make it unanimous, which was done.

The vote for treasurer nominated Cameron on first ballot: Cameron, 470; Latham, 192; Campbell, 111; Refenberick, 95.

TWO MEN FROM CHICAGO

An Officer of a Local Pottery in an Interview on the Subject Says the Plan Is a Very Fair One--Not a Trust as Dos Passos Was--Visitors Say Future Will Talk.

J. H. Frambach and C. F. Price, of Chicago, are in the city for the purpose of forming a combination among the various potteries to maintain higher prices. The gentlemen are representatives of Charles Berg & Co., bankers and brokers, with offices at 107 Dearborn street.

Yesterday they visited several potteries in company with F. W. Fowler, of the American China works, of Toronto, and to the owners of each plant the gentlemen presented their proposition. This morning a reporter called at the office of a pottery where the gentlemen had visited, and an officer of the company said:

"These men came to the city to form a combination, and not a trust, as is generally supposed. They have a different plan to that which was pursued by John R. Dos Passos, of the American Potteries' company. Whether it will be a success, I am unable to say, other than that the proposition is an extremely fair one."

This morning Messrs. Frambach and Price expected a third party to arrive from Chicago, but up to noon he had not come. Mr. Fowler, when approached on the matter, refused to talk, saying that the future would speak for itself.

Recently the manufacturers of this city received a letter from Berg & Co., stating they had presented a plan to Chicago capitalists relative to forming what in a sense may be a trust among the potteries. This plan met their approval, and if the manufacturers act quickly the trust or combination could be formed within 60 days.

Five Offenders Taken to the County Seat Today by Chief Johnson.

There was no new business in Mayor Bough's court this morning, and all the old cases before him yesterday were disposed of last night.

This morning Chief Johnson and ex-Officer Grim took Edwin Hancock, Charles Amos, Dunk Pickering, Jabez Hodgkinson and Charles Hutton to Lisbon, where they will be held to appear before the grand jury. To obtain the release of the boys it will require bonds amounting to $6,500.

TAX LEVY INCREASED

It Will Be Eleven and a Half Mills This Year.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Held a Special Session and Decided How Much Money They Would Need For Expenses Next Year—$3,600 Was Borrowed to Meet Current Expenses.

The board of education held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of fixing the tax levy.

Members Hill, Vodrey, Taggart, Murphy and Norris were present and after the session had been opened in the usual manner the members settled down to figuring how much money would be needed to run the schools next year. The present tax levy is 11 mills and after several members had figured for some time it was decided that it would be necessary to increase the levy one mill, making it 12 mills. At this juncture Doctor Norris called the attention of the board to the fact that they received about $7,000 from the state, which had not been taken into consideration. This caused the members to do some more figuring and it was finally decided to place the tax levy at 11½ mills, an increase of one-half mill. This will give the board about $88,000 a year, and with the $7,000 received from the state added makes a total of $95,000, and it is thought the amount will cover the expenses for next year.

The board then decided to borrow $3,600, divided equally among the banks. The notes will be given for 30 days, and will be paid off when the advancement of the June taxes arrives.

Bimetallists to Organize Aggressively In All States.

A COMMITTEE WAS NAMED.

Appointed to Co-Operate With the National Democratic Committee—Altgeld A Member—Speakers Declared For Bryan—Farren Again Chosen President.

LOUISVILLE, June 2.—A resolution, introduced by General E. B. Finley of Ohio, was adopted by the convention of Ohio Valley Bimetallic clubs, providing that the president appoint a committee to co-operate with the Democratic national committee, to thoroughly organize in every state and territory for 1900.

Judge Tarvin announced: John P. Altgeld, Illinois; George Fred Williams, Massachusetts; J. W. Overmeyer, Indiana; J. Somonin, Kentucky; Allen W. Clarke, Indiana; and James P. Tarvin of Kentucky.

P. Wat Hardin of Kentucky spoke and gave it as his opinion that bimetalism is the true issue that is confronting the Democracy of the United States and the one upon which, with W. J. Bryan at the head, the party will march to triumphant victory in 1900. Similar sentiments were expressed by Hon. William Goebel and William J. Stine, both of Kentucky.

Chairman Tarvin named committees on officers for ensuing term and on resolutions, after which the convention adjourned temporarily.

When President Tarvin again called the convention to order Hon. Henry Warrum of Indiana spoke.

The committee on constitution recommended an amendment to the constitution for the election of two vice presidents from each of the four states and that the officers and executive committees elected by this convention serve until the close of 1901. It was adopted.

The committee on a place for meeting for 1900 recommended that a committee consisting of the officers of the league, with D. S. Oliver of Ohio, S. M. Biddison of Illinois and Joseph Rhines of Kentucky, select a place and time and issue a call for the 1900 meeting. The report was adopted.

The committee on officers for the ensuing year made the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

President, James P. Tarvin, Kentucky; vice presidents, F. J. VanVoorhis of Indiana, D. S. Oliver of Ohio, S. M. Biddison of Illinois, W. J. Semonin of Kentucky, John B. Altgeld of Illinois, John Overmeyer of Indiana, Louis Stantz of Ohio and Thomas Tandy of Kentucky; secretary, Allen W. Clarke, Indiana; treasurer, Adam Heimburger, Indiana.

The executive committee shall consist of all the above named officers together with the following named members: F. J. Deller, G. E. Downey, Indiana; J. W. Orr, Naber, Gottlieb, Illinois; C. V. Hull, H. C. Cordrey, Ohio; J. L. Rhunock, Kentucky.

The resolutions declared for the Chicago platform, that bimetalism would largely destroy the trusts, and for Bryan as the party nominee.

AN OUTPOST ATTACKED.

Rebels Wounded Two Americans Near San Fernando—Rearrangement of Commands—Messages From Otis.

LONDON, June 2.—A special dispatch from Manila says that the insurgents attacked the outposts of the Fifty-first Iowa Regiment at San Fernando, and that two Americans were hit.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The war department received the following dispatch from General Otis at Manila, dated June 1:

General Smith reports from Negros that he has punished insurgents who murdered Captain Tilley; that the eastern coast of the island now is under the American flag and its inhabitants ask protection against robber bands. The bands were pursued into the mountains by United States and native troops and severely punished.

Replying to inquiries of Secretary Alger, General Otis telegraphed "that he is still of the opinion that 30,000 troops will be necessary for the effective control of the Philippines."

Secretary Alger took General Otis' cable to the president and after conference with him stated that the text of the dispatch would not be made public, as it contained other matters besides an answer to his inquiry of the other day.

"It reaffirms General Otis' estimate made some time ago," said the secretary, "that 30,000 men would be sufficient to cope with the situation. As I stated yesterday, the regulars now on the way or under orders to go to the Philippines will give General Otis about 24,000 or 25,000 men after the withdrawal of the volunteers."

"Where will the additional 5,000 or 8,000 men for whom General Otis asks come from?" the secretary was asked.

"That has not been definitely determined as yet," he replied. "We may be able to take the additional troops asked for from the regulars now located in this country, Cuba and Porto Rico, or it may be found advisable to muster in volunteers."

"In case it is decided to call for volunteers, will the call only be for the 5,000 or 6,000 men necessary to bring General Otis' total up to 30,000?"

"If volunteers are called for," replied the secretary, "the call probably will be for 10,000 men."

MANILA, June 2.—General Lawton was given command of the defenses of the city and troops forming the line around Manila, which will be his division.

General MacArthur commands the outlying garrisons and the troops holding the railroad and river.

Love Exhibition of the National Game at a Brooklyn Park.

There were nine stiff jointed Chinamen in New York the other morning. They tried to play a game of baseball with the "Colored New Yorks" at Washington park, Brooklyn, the other afternoon in the presence of about 1,200 spectators. Many Chinatown, Bowery and east side celebrities occupied seats in the grand stand, including "Chuck" Connors. When the struggle was half over and the Mongolians were hopelessly in the rear "Chuck" arose from his chair, yawned, and growled:

"Aw, forget it!"

While the Chinese experts showed that they had learned the principles of the national pastime, they demonstrated a total inability to get in the way of grounders and to make proper throws. If an accurate score could have been kept, probably a hundred errors would have been charged against them. A soft ball was used and the pitcher of the colored nine tossed in old fashioned "dewdrops," which were met with some degree of skill but no force.

The Chinese pitcher, Lang Wang, had great difficulty in getting the ball up to the batsmen. He employed an "old maid" delivery and fell all over himself whenever the ball was returned to him by the catcher, whose name on the score card was Chin On, but who was in reality a local player of considerable ability. He looked like a Chinaman at a distance, but when Umpire Butler called him out upon one occasion he appeared in his true colors with the retort:

"Ah, dig der dust out o' yer blinks and don't do us dirt. See!"

In the third inning the colored men rolled up 13 runs. Ha Ling, Wung Wan and Chin Hong, the outfielders, chased the ball until their eyes were bulging and their tongues were hanging out. After the seventh inning the colored men hurried the game to a finish. A Chinese band made a noise before the game and then sat silently on the bench. Both teams wore regulation uniforms. "The score was 33 to 11 in favor of the other fellows," said the manager of the "Chinks" to his men. The score by innings follows:

Chinese Giants... 2 0 2 0 1 2 0 1—11

Fair haired people are said to be becoming less numerous than formerly. The ancient Jews were a fair haired race; now they are, with few exceptions, dark. So it is, in a lesser degree, with the Irish, among whom 150 years ago a dark haired person was almost unknown.

The average life of a theater is 23 years. From 1861 to 1867, inclusive, 187 theaters were burned down, and 13 every year since has been about the average.

UNION LABELS.

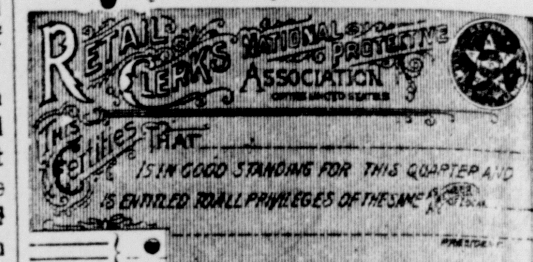

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card ask for it when making purchases.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

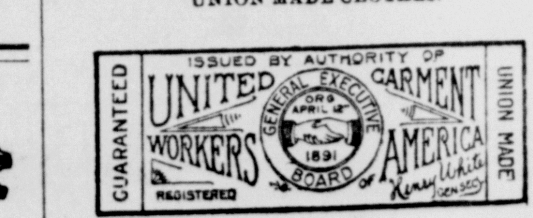

The Journeymen Tailor's Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labels may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

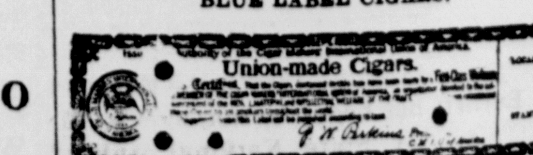

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

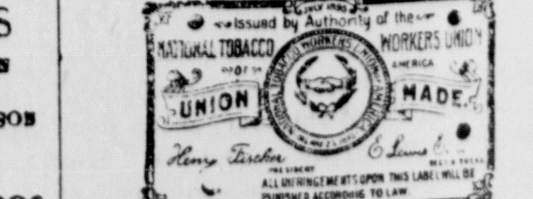

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

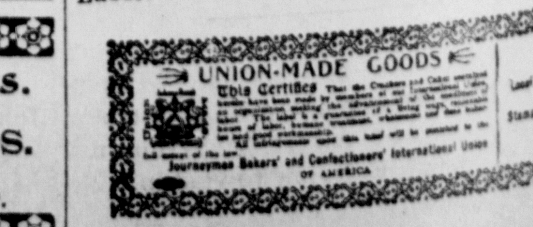

TOBACCO LABEL.

The above Label, printed on blue paper, will be found on all plug tobacco and on the wrappers of chewing tobacco manufactured in union tobacco factories.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker label:

TOLD OF ROSA BONHEUR

How the Noted Picture Came to New York and Was Presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art—Amusing Incidents in the Artist's Life—Her Love For Animals.

Many interesting anecdotes are told about the late Rosa Bonheur, famous painter of animals, and her pictures. The true history of Rosa Bonheur's "The Horse Fair," No. 189 of the gallery of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York, may be found in the catalogue. In a letter written to Mr. S. P. Avery by Mr. Ernest Gambart the latter explains precisely how "The Horse Fair" came to New York.

"It was painted in 1852 by Rosa Bonheur, then in her thirtieth year, and exhibited in the next Salon. Though much admired, it did not find a purchaser. It was soon after exhibited at Ghent, meeting again with much appreciation, but was not sold, as art did not flourish at the time. In 1855 the picture was sent by Mlle. Rosa Bonheur to her native town of Bordeaux and exhibited there. She offered to sell it to the town at the very low price of 12,000 francs ($2,400). While there I asked her if she would sell it to me and allow me to take it to England and have it engraved. She said: 'I wish my picture to remain in France. I will once more impress on my countrymen my wish to sell it to them for 12,000 francs. If they refuse, you can have it, but if you take it abroad you must pay me 40,000 francs.' The town failing to make the purchase, I at once accepted these terms, and Rosa Bonheur then placed the picture at my disposal. I tendered her the 40,000 francs, and she said: 'I am much gratified at your giving me such a noble price, but I do not like to feel that I have taken advantage of your liberality. Let us see how we can combine in the matter. You will not be able to have an engraving made from so large a canvas. Suppose I paint you a small one of the same subject, of which I will make you a present.' Of course I accepted the gift, and thus it happened that the large work went traveling over the kingdom on exhibition, while Thomas Landseer was making an engraving from the quarter size replica.

"After some time, in 1857, I think, I sold the original picture to Mr. William P. Wright, New York (whose picture gallery and residence were at Weehawken, N. J.), for the sum of 30,000 francs, but as he claimed a share of the profits of its exhibition in New York and other cities he really paid me only 22,000 francs for it. I offered to repurchase the picture in 1870 for 50,000 francs, but ultimately I understood that Mr. Stewart paid a much larger price for it on the dispersion of Mr. Wright's gallery. The quarter size replica, from which the engraving was made, I finally sold to Mr. Jacob Bell, who bequeathed it in 1859 to the nation, and it is now in the National gallery in London. A second still smaller replica was painted a few years later and was resold some time ago in London for £4,000 ($20,000). There is also a smaller water color drawing, which was sold to Mr. Bolckow for 2,500 guineas ($12,000), and is now an heirloom belonging to the town of Middleborough. That is the whole history of this grand work. The Stewart canvas is the real and true original and only large size 'Horse Fair.' Once in Mr. Stewart's possession, it never left his gallery until the auction sale of his collection, March 25, 1887, when it was purchased by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt for the sum of $53,500 and presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art."

Miss Bonheur was very absentminded. She wore a shabby costume when painting and a pair of dilapidated slippers. More than once she went out without thinking of the negligence of this dress and discovered it when too late to make a change. There was a first performance one night at the Theatre Francaise in Paris of a piece written by an author friend of hers which she wished to hear. She was staying in town then, doing some work in a friend's studio. The servant rushed in to say that the carriage was at the door and the rest of the party waiting. Throwing down her palette and brushes and picking up her hat, she ran down stairs, got into the carriage, and, when they reached the theater, Rosa was placed next to a very stylish clubman, who, at the first entrance, complained to the usher that she had placed a woman next to him whose dress was stained with oil. "It is outrageous," said he indignantly. "Ask her to take another seat." The usher answered that he had no right to put people out who had paid for their places, but the gentleman made such a

"I am complaining of the woman who has the seat next to me. Go and see for yourself the way she is attired."

The head usher took one look at the dress circle; then, turning to the angry person, said:

"Your name, sir, if you please?"

"What do you want with my name?"

"That I may request Mlle. Rosa Bonheur, in your name, to leave her seat."

"You are joking with me."

"Not at all, sir. The lady in the dress stained with oil is the famous artist. Her costume, it is true, is in striking contrast with yours. Shall I ask her, in your name, to take another seat?"

The following story was told by Miss Bonheur to an interviewer concerning an amusing incident in her life. She said:

"Once when I was returning from the country in the male attire which I always wore on my travels I suddenly heard that one of my friends was ill, and, without finding time to change my costume, I hurried to the sickroom. As I was seated on the bed of the patient, holding her hand to ascertain if there was any fever, the doctor came in and, seeing me, a young man, in such a familiar position, hastily closed the door and discreetly retired. Then my friend reminded me that I was in male attire and that the physician may have been led to believe what was far from the truth. I immediately ran after the doctor, luckily caught him on the stairs and left him greatly surprised to hear that the young man he had just left tete-a-tete with his patient was me, Rosa Bonheur."

Her love for the animals she painted is illustrated by this story: A vicious lion had to be removed to Paris, and some months later, being in that city, she went one day to see her former pet. There was a great crowd around the cage. He was dying of disease and neglect. She called out to him: "Oh, my poor Nero! What have they done to you?" And he heard her and lifted up his poor head and saw her and crawled to the bars and lay down close beside them so she could touch him. She said it was only a common crowd there—ragamuffins and rough men and women—but there was not a dry eye there, and they all took off their hats to her as they recognized her.

Two days later the lion was dead. And when she ended her story her own bright eyes were dim, and I think ours were too. She waved her little hands and said: "You see, my friends, I am a real savage. I know no one, not even my fellow artists. I live with my peasants and my animals, and I think with my beloved La Fontaine that the company of beasts is often far preferable to that of men."

Special Agent Max Pracht of the federal building in Santa Fe the other day inserted an advertisement in The New Mexican, offering to buy ten horned toads. When he arrived at his office in the morning, he found an army of people lined up in the corridor, like the rush at Durango when the Ute lands were opened. The first ones in line seemed to have been there all night. Every grade of citizenship and servitude was represented. They had brought horned toads of all kinds, color, class and condition. Some were as small as a bedbug and others as large as a mud turtle. They were housed in cigar boxes, old hat boxes, handkerchiefs, shawls and satchels.

All day long young and old, large and tall, clean and dirty people called, offering horned toads for sale, until every one in the Federal building had a creepy, crawly, clammy feeling, and Mr. Pracht had selected the finest specimens that ever found their way to a zoological garden. He is convinced by this time that there are more horned toads in and around Santa Fe than anything else. The rush became so great in the afternoon that the sign "No More Horned Toads Wanted" was put out. But still they came, and Mr. Pracht was compelled to seize his hat and coat and flee into the jungle not far from the Federal building.—Santa Fe Mexican.

Cervera Remembers Friends.

Arthur C. Humphreys of Norfolk, Va., has received from Admiral Cervera and Captain Concas of the Spanish navy likenesses of themselves, sent to him as a token of regard. Each came in a pretty gilt frame made in Spain. The picture of Admiral Cervera was sent from his home in Madrid and that of Captain Concas came from his home in Barcelona. Dr. Humphreys also has received a handsome Spanish admiral's flag, made by the wife and daughter of Captain Concas and sent to him by that officer.—New York Press.

Impudence.

"I have just learned," she said, with a perceptible tinge of asperity, "that I am the ninth girl to whom you have been engaged."

"Well," he suavely replied, "that ought to make you glad."

"Glad?" she exclaimed. "I'd like to know why?"

"Don't you know," he answered, "that there's luck in odd numbers?"

A SUBDUER OF INDIANS.

Dr. Mary McKee's Brave Work Among the Moquis.

STAMPING OUT SMALLPOX PLAGUE.

Woman Physician, Employed by the Government, Compels the Indians to Submit to Vaccination and Fumigation Against Their Will—Troops Sent to Enforce Her Orders.

The Washington Correspondent of the Chicago Record, writing under date of May 23 about smallpox among the Moqui Indians, says: The smallpox is so bad among the Moqui Indians in Arizona and is spreading so fast that there is fear that the whole tribe may be exterminated. In order to stop the plague Miss Mary McKee, the agency physician, with the assistance of Mr. Shoemaker, the farmer employed by the government to teach the Indians the science of agriculture and the use of modern implements, undertook to vaccinate the entire tribe, fumigate their houses and burn the effects of those who have died or were suffering from the disease.

The Indians made a stubborn resistance. They are fatalists. Their religion teaches them that a sick person is under the ban of the evil spirit, who can only be driven away by incantations and the use of the magic arts. Therefore it is not only difficult, but almost impossible, to convince them that smallpox can be prevented by the use of simple and ordinary precautions. Miss McKee decided to take matters into her own hands, and she ordered up the entire tribe for vaccination. The agent of the Moqui Indians, a man named Hazlett, also has the Navajoes under his charge and lives with the latter tribe. But he readily gave his permission for this brave woman doctor to use her own judgment in stamping out the plague.

The Indians did not take the vaccination seriously. They are accustomed to a good deal of self torture, and a little scraping of the skin and soreness of the arm was not a matter of much consequence to them, but when Miss McKee invaded their houses and drove them out and put in her pans of sulphur they made a decided remonstrance. Then when she seized the clothing, bedding, furniture and other things that had been in the rooms of smallpox victims the relatives who expected to inherit the property objected. But neither this nor anything else stopped her until she had thoroughly cleansed and fumigated two of the seven villages and vaccinated every one of their inhabitants.

By that time an account of her performances had reached the other pueblos, and when she and Mr. Shoemaker arrived at the third one morning to begin their work the head chief appeared and refused them entrance. Behind them were ranged the caciques, or priests, the medicine men and the warriors of the village, armed with guns, bows and arrows and other weapons. The chief explained that they were willing to give the government medicine to the sick whenever Miss McKee prescribed it, but they could not allow her to come into their houses and burn their furniture and beds and sting the arms of their women and children.

Miss McKee tried to explain the object of vaccination and the benefits to be derived from disinfecting, and she warned them that unless they permitted her to have her way the whole tribe would die of the plague. Her words had no effect. The inhabitants of this and the five other villages absolutely refused to allow her to enter them. But she was not to be daunted. She immediately sent for Mr. Hazlett to come over from the Navajoes and persuaded him to telegraph to Washington for the assistance of troops. Secretary Hitchcock presented the matter to Secretary Alger, and the commanding officer at Fort Wingate was instructed to send a company of men immediately to Moqui to defend Miss McKee and enforce her orders. They should have arrived there by this time, and it is a pity that a Kipling could not go with them to describe the scene that is occurring about now, with a delicate little woman as the hero instead of the British officer, in the thrilling tale that he tells of the attempt to enforce vaccination among the natives of India. The government is going to stand by Miss McKee if it takes every soldier left in our territory, and the Moquis have got to be vaccinated.

It would have been a blessing if Miss McKee had undertaken this duty 25 or 30 years ago, for smallpox is almost always epidemic among the Pueblo Indians, and no attempt has ever been made before to vaccinate them or fumigate their houses. There are 26 other pueblos in Arizona and New Mexico which are also suffering more or less from smallpox, and Dr. McKee's example will doubtless be followed by the other agency physicians.

Dr. Mary H. McKee is a Pennsylvanian and was appointed physician at Keams Canyon, A. T., in January, 1891, with a salary of $1,000 a year. She is about 35 years of age, slight of stature and of delicate physique. She has, however, shown a great deal of courage, zeal and efficiency, and ranks high on the records of the Indian office.

Only 2.6 feet more water is needed for a barge stage, and as there is a rise of six inches reported to be coming from the headwaters of the Monongahela, with more rain predicted, rivermen are confident that a coal shipping stage will develop within the next few days.

Owing to the rise the wickets at the dam were lowered yesterday, it being claimed that at a 7-foot stage or over the pressure is too heavy against the wickets to permit of their being kept up with safety. The marks at the wharf registered eight feet today.

Graveyards In China.

The wife of an American naval officer stationed at Tien-tsin writes thus to a friend in Baltimore: "The trip by train from the landing to Tien-tsin takes about an hour and a half. The cars are not palatial, but they are comfortable. When you land, hundreds of coolies besiege you for your baggage. You wonder how it ever reaches its destination in safety. The trip is somewhat interesting, but rather desolate to take alone. You pass through miles of graveyards. There are thousands of mounds without a sign of green grass or green leaf.

"China seems to be one vast graveyard, for they bury their dead anywhere they wish. They bury in large coffins placed on the surface of the ground, covered over with mud and earth. This is blown and washed away, and then the coffins are exposed to view. A few miles from the railroad station on the river you come to trees and vegetation. It reminds you of some of the poor land that some of our railroads at home go through."

How Frozen Insects Revive.

Experiments in reviving frozen insects, by Mr. S. F. Aaron, show some surprising results. A large cecropia moth, frozen in the center of a snowball until it was perfectly brittle, revived in 20 seconds when held near a stove. Several newly hatched moths revived in a similar manner after being frozen stiff and then thawed out. Similar experiments with ants, butterflies and house flies gave the same results. But Mr. Aaron noticed that recently hatched insects resist cold better than older ones.

PICKERING AND AMOS

Were Bound Over to Court Yesterday Afternoon

IN THE SUM OF $1,500

Pickering Didn't Like the Action of the Mayor and Made a Few Remarks—The Prosecuting Witness Did Not Recognize Either Pickering or Amos.

The case against Dunk Pickering before Mayor Bough yesterday afternoon was not called until 2:20 o'clock or almost an hour later than it should have been. The testimony was interspersed with numerous tilts between the mayor and Attorney W. M. Hill, who defended Pickering.

Mrs. Emma Copestick, John Weaver and Mrs. Elizabeth Stanaway told the same stories as they did in the former cases.

John Murray, night watchman at the East Liverpool pottery, was a new witness. He said he saw Dunk Pickering on Sunday night on Second street between 11 and 12 o'clock, and was asked by him if a person could bring a girl in the pottery. Cross examined witness added that Pickering said it was not him who wanted to bring the girl to the pottery.

William T. Maloney, night watchman at Brunt's, said he did not see Pickering at the pottery the evening of May 21.

Francis O'Hanlon, bartender at Thompson's saloon, saw Pickering on that Sunday evening at Second and Union streets. Pickering told him he had hit Weaver in the mouth, but said nothing about the girl. This occurred about 10:30 o'clock.

She Couldn't Say.

Miss Mary Wancik and the interpreter Joseph Bilane were then placed on the stand and the same old story was told. She was asked if she recognized Pickering, and turned and looked at him and said she did not. She then said it was too dark to see that night. On cross examination she said she never saw Pickering before. The mayor asked the same question, and she replied that she didn't know as it was dark that night.

The defense presented no witnesses and Attorney W. M. Hill in making the argument stated that he had heard it said that the defendant was going to be bound over and that he had been told the mayor had said he intended to bind the defendant over before the testimony was given. He then read what the law said the state must prove before he could be bound over and made a short argument on the case.

The mayor said an attorney could not be blamed for making a vigorous effort in behalf of his client but he always considered the testimony before him. The mayor then reviewed the testimony and bound Pickering over in the sum of $1,500.

"You might as well make it $15,000. What am I bound over for? The grand jury will laugh at you," said Pickering. "They would laugh at me if I turned you loose in this community," said the mayor and the affair ended.

Amos on Trial.

The case against Charles Amos was called next. Mrs. Copestick told the same old story as did John Weaver. Mrs. Stanway saw Amos at the hotel shortly after the girl had left and he was still there when she went to bed. William T. Maloney didn't know whether he saw Amos on the Sunday evening in question but thought he did.

Mary Wancik and the interpreter, Joseph Bilane, repeated her story and then said she did not know whether she ever saw the defendant before.

The state rested, and Amos had Edward Mosby, Walter Wright and Hattie Lewis subpoenaed. Miss Lewis said Amos did not follow the girl out of the hotel and was still at the hotel at 12 o'clock. Walter Wright swore Amos didn't leave the hotel until 12 o'clock. Ed Mosby corroborated and Amos himself told his story as told by his witnesses.

The mayor said the witnesses for the defense were contradictory and bound the prisoner over in the sum of $1,500.
